

policy, honor and humanity, to resist this terrible inroad upon the common good. They well knew that New England was the carrier of the rich produce of the Southern department of the confederation, who receive through the northern states the produce of the Indies and of Europe; and that although the duties to the government are first paid here, that the consumer ultimately bears the weight of the impost. They knew all this, and consequently saw the awful danger of Mr. ELY's attempt to derange the system, and make a political volcano of their parent state, from whence the destructive fires were to be belched forth upon her associated sisters in legislation and strength. Their apprehension made them think with more depth and precision, thought awakened their duty, when they immediately clung to "fast principles," and expressed their repugnance to the proposed innovation, by giving a decided majority against the promoters and friends of this calamitous attempt.

HUMAN LIFE.

"We lash the ling'ring moments into speed,
"To hurry us into eternity."

Calculations have been made to ascertain the number of inhabitants on this Globe, and thence to deduce the number of those who die in any given time. The general computation stands thus,
In Asia 650 millions,
In Africa 150
In America 150
In Europe 130

1080

In all one thousand and four score millions. If then we suppose, for the sake of a round number, that the Earth is inhabited by one thousand millions of men, or thereabout, and that 33 years make a generation, it follows, that in that space of time, there die out one thousand millions.—Then the number of deaths each year amounts to 30,000,000—each day to 82,000, and each hour to 3,416.—This computation I suspect is under the truth, yet it shows us with what impetuosity the tide of human life goes out—how rapidly our hours and minutes flee—and that our life is but a vapor which continueth for a moment.

To my Young Readers

Let the whole of this essay be dedicated. Therefore, let me entreat them to observe, that Youth is the proper season for cultivating the benevolent and humane affections. As a great part of your happiness is to depend on the connections which you form with others, it is of the highest importance that you acquire in early life the temper and the manner which will render such connections comfortable. Let a sense of justice be the foundation of all your social qualities: in your early intercourse with the world, and even in your youthful amusements, let no obsequy or unfairness be found: Engrave on your minds that sacred rule of "doing in all things to others, according as you wish that they should do unto you." For this end, impress upon your minds a deep sense of the original and natural equality of men. Whatever advantages of birth or fortune you possess, never display them with an ostentatious superiority.—Leave the subordinations of rank, to regulate the intercourse of more advanced years. A present it becomes you to act among your companions, as man with man. Remember, how unknown to you are the vicissitudes of the world; and how often they, on whom ignorant and contemptuous men have looked down with scorn, have risen to be their superiors in future years. Graceful in youth is the tear of sympathy, and the heart that melts as the tale of woe. Let not ease and indulgence contract your affections, and wrap you up in selfish enjoyment. Accustom yourselves to think of the distress of human life; of the solitary cottage, the dying parent, and the weeping orphan! Never sport with pain and distress, in any of your amusements; or treat even the meanest insect with wanton cruelty. For He who formed them, created you—He who endowed them with an instinct for self-preservation, gave you the gift of reason—and to the gift attached a high degree of responsibility.—In a word, learn early to deal justly, to love, mercy—and to walk humbly with your God; then his goodness and mercy will accompany you all the days of your life, and you will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

AURORA.

To SUBSCRIBERS—Those subscribers, to the Aurora, who from their remoteness or other cause, have found it difficult to discharge the sums due for subscription, are informed that they can with ease and safety make payment through their representatives in congress—as the editor regularly attends, at the seat of the general government, from the opening to the close of each session.

Those of our subscribers, who reside in Pennsylvania, and are indebted for subscription, can conveniently make payment through their representatives to the state legislature.

It is hoped our subscribers will take advantage of these opportunities for discharging their respective debts.

The terms of subscription for the "DAILY AURORA," are—eight dollars a year, half in advance.

Those of the "Country Aurora," published every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, five dollars a year, payable in advance.

No charge is made for package, as is customary with other printers.

Printers of republican news-papers, in Pennsylvania, and in the southern and western states will oblige by giving the above a place once or twice, in their respective papers.

20,000 Numbers.

Not two Blanks to a Prize.

The tickets to be sold in Halves, at five dollars each.

The Managers respectfully solicit the aid of the public to accomplish the object of the above Lottery.—Considerable exertions for several years having been already made by an association of ladies, for the education of poor orphans of all denominations.—Teachers in every part of the city have been paid quarterly for the schooling of children, and in some instances assisted with necessary clothes, from the precarious resources of subscriptions, public and private donations, charity sermons, &c.

The legislature of Maryland have been pleased to grant a lottery to raise a fund upon more stable and permanent principles, for the support of this institution; and the mayor and city council, in sanctioning it by an ordinance, have also given a very honorable testimony of their good wishes, by relinquishing the customary tax on the Managers therefore confidently hope, that the above scheme, as well from the benevolence of its intention, as the principle of advantage to every citizen, in this or any other part of the United States. Adventurers in this lottery, while they feel a conscientious and consoling reflection of having thereby contributed their mite to the permanent establishment of a Free School, for the education of poor children, male and female, of every denomination; will also in a pecuniary point of view, experience advantages superior to any other scheme heretofore offered.

For the convenience of purchasers, the managers have thought proper to strike off the tickets in halves, leaving it optional with the purchaser to take the whole or half ticket.

The managers have given bond for the faithful performance of their trust.

Sixty days after the drawing is finished the prizes will be paid, subject to a deduction of 12 1-2 per cent.—if not demanded within 12 months after the drawing is finished, they will be considered as relinquished for the orphans.

Baltimore Theatre.

Last Week.

(NEVER ACTED HERE)

THIS EVENING,

Will be presented a favorite Tragedy, in 3 acts, called

The Distressed Mother.

Translated by Ambrose Phillips, from the Andromaque of Racin.

After which will be performed (for the first time these 6 years) the admired pantomime of

The Grateful Lion;

OR, HARLEQUIN SHIPWRECKED

The music compiled from the most favorite composers. The overture, by Mr. Reinagle. The pantomime under the direction of Mr. Francis.

Scene 1 A storm at sea, violent thunder and lightning, a ship strikes upon the reef of a rock and goes to pieces, Harlequin escapes from the wreck, and finds himself cast on a savage island.

Scene 2 A wood, a hollow cavern on one side—Harlequin enters in search of sustenance, discovers the cavern; he enters it and lays down, is alarmed by the roaring of a Lion; he rises and advances slowly; he is astonished to see the lion approach; with the utmost gentleness he draws near, and perceiving a large thorn in its foot, after some hesitation (occasioned by fear) he pulls the thorn out—The lion expresses gratitude.

Scene 3 A wood—a number of savages are discovered at their amusements, are interrupted by the noise of wild beasts, they prepare to attack them, but the noise decreasing, suppose they have taken another route; they take a piece of raw flesh and hang it on a tree as a bait for beasts and retire.—Harlequin comes forward much dejected and apparently faint for want of food—he sees the bait and is taking it from the tree, when the savages rushing out are going to kill him—on the instant the lion springing from a thicket puts them to flight; Harlequin recollects his deliverer and displaying his gratitude, retires with the lion.

Scene 4 A cave; a savage princess enters, armed with bow & arrows and prepared for the chase; Harlequin enters; she is at first alarmed and threatens him with death if he approaches—she seems submissive and she by degrees becoming pleased, makes signs for him to approach, and finding him harmless becomes more familiar.

S. 5 A calm sea & a ship at anchor, Harlequin & princess enter. Harlequin seeing the ship, prevails on the princess to quit the island, & making a signal to the ship, is answered by hoisting the ensign and firing a gun; a boat is seen to row from the ship while they are waiting the lion rushes out and flies at the princess; Harlequin rushes himself between them and saves her; he renews his friendship with the lion, who lies down at the princess' feet; the boat comes to the shore, an officer and some seamen land, and conduct the strangers on board; just as the boat leaves the shore the lion (who was reposing) is roused by the dashing of the water, occasioned by the boat's motil n, and appears in much distress at his friend quitting the shore, and prompted by attachment mourns the loss of his departing friend; but in a short time his affection is wrought upon him, that he leaps into the sea and swims after the boat, &c.

After which follows
A variety of Changes Paracomimical tricks and Wonderful Transformations.

The whole to conclude with the Death and Restoration of Columbine, in the Garden of the Genius.
