

ed some time upon the East shore of Scotland, where he took Edward on board, and sailed for Flanders; where he arrived, after having escaped several English men of war and privateers, which gave chase to him. He also brought over several Scotch and Irish lords, who serv'd in this expedition.
The excessive fatigues which Prince Edward underwent, have occasioned a very bad state of health, but he is somewhat better than he was upon his landing. As soon as his advice was brought of his coming on shore at Blackenbourg, a courier was sent to Rome with advice of it.

but her into Plymouth.

August 28. There is a Story by the Ships from East-India, that Commodore Basset was before Ponticherry with 4 Men of War, but in fact that it was impossible for any Ship to go in or out.

The India Ships bring an Account that Commodore Basset's Squadron has taken the following Ships, viz. the L'Amiable Maria, at St. Jago; The Manomet, Charles, from Manilla, taken by Capt. Moor in the Straights of Molacco; the La Heuz, from Surate; the Duplex, from B. Teureu; and two Piloet Sloops from Bengal, all taken by the Lord Northesk, off Point Palmiris; the Cardanagore, from Sedah, taken by Capt.
Rofewell, in the Lively Man of War; the Caesar from Ponticherry, and the Expedition, a Privateer of 30 Men and 14 Guns, with a Packet from France, taken off Molacco, by the Medway Man of War; and a small Sloop from Ponticherry, taken by Lord Thomas Bertie.

By the Retreat of the Allies over the Meuse, Namur, the last Town of the Dutch Barrier, is left entirely exposed to the Enemy: But then the Allies, if they think proper, may live upon French Territories, while the Siege of it is carrying on, which is more than they have had in their Power during all the Sieges since the War began in the Netherlands.

Deal, August 29. Came down the Mercury, Hargrave, for Philadelphia.

London, August 30. It is said, there is a Plan formed by both the Kings under the King of Sardinia and Pr. Charles September.

August 30. All our Advices from the North are full of Ex-cisions on the Order, Decency, and Regularity of the Proceedings in order to the Trials of the Rebel Prisoners, we have all the Opportunities imaginable given them for their Defence, and are treated in every Respect with Candour, Gentleness and Humanity, which have been the constant Characteristics of the present Government. The Populace indeed (as may well be expected) are a little warm and clamorous against them, remembering the Injuries done them last Winter; but all the Care is taken to prevent their expressing their Resentments otherwise than by Words, in which they are very free.

Newcastle August 30. On Saturday last Field Marshal Earl Stair passed thro' Carlisle on his Way to Scotland. He was luted by the cannon from the castle, and the Soldiers performed the other military Honours due to Persons of his Distinction.
