Of all the nuisances that make I rise betimes to plant a bed, As soon as I'm away Those hens, by the big rooster led, March in and spend the day. And when I hasten home at night To see my labors crowned.

Those chickens, with a cyclone's might,"
Have scratched my pretty ground, My wife the baby leaves alone To shoo those hens away, But as she cannot throw a stone, They laugh at her and stay. Around my house is little seen
_But dusty holes and dirt; They cat the grass before its green, And all my flowers hurt.

My neighbor has a garden, too, And keeps it looking fine,
For he has trained his pirate crew
To fly right into mine. In case I shoot the feathered plagues I go to jail alack; If in my yard they drop some eggs My neighbor wants them back. Beneath my window ere the dawn His rooster comes to crow, Till I. half crazy, seek the lawn And chase it with a hoc. I live in strife and misery.
