THE PRIMARIES NEXT WEEK.

We sincerely trust that good delegations to the County and Judicial Conventions will be selected at the primaries next week, and that an unexceptional ticket may be nominated. If this is done the victory will be with us by the usual majority. It is the bounden duty of every Democrat who can to go to the primary polls, as they are the very fountain head of the party. Keep them pure and the stream will be pure. If we were to write columns we could not say more.

☞It is stated that Washington is almost deserted by that genius American who is anxious to get his clutches upon an office that he may hold it fast. The President being away they do not seem to make much headway, and as board is high they hie them off to other pastures where free lunch doth abound.

☞Mr. J. P. Clarke will take charge of Barnum's Hotel and run it during the celebration next week. He will be able to accommodate 4,000 guests.

THE EXPOSITION NEXT WEEK.

The Maryland State Exposition to be held at Pimlico from the 9th to the 14th of this month is now an assured success far beyond the fondest anticipations of any of its promoters. The entries of exhibits represent every industry and every county in the State. The management has succeeded in perfecting every detail, amusement and entertainment promised by them at the start. They have a fine and suitable depot near the centres of trades and transportation where the farmers, the stockbreeders, the dairymen, poultry fanciers and many others engaged in agricultural pursuits have responded nobly and in large numbers with handsome exhibits, and every citizen of the commonwealth may well feel proud of his State's products at Pimlico. An additional and attractive feature, especially to our young men in the counties, and through them the young ladies of course, is the tournament to be held under the electric lights on the evening of Tuesday the 10th inst. Governor Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, will deliver the charge to the Sir Knights, and Capt. Frank Supplee the Coronation Address. A number have already entered, and it is hoped that every county in the State will have at least one Sir Knight to uphold her chivalry.—The prizes offered to the successful Knights are valuable and handsome silver tea sets of six pieces. The ladies who are crowned Queen of Love and Beauty and Maids of Honor will receive gold medals as mementoes of the great event. The ball to be given by the citizens of Maryland to the President of the U. S. and his Cabinet has attracted considerable attention in our counties, and will be an important feature.

In addition to these distinguished gentlemen the Governors of New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia and Maryland are expected to be present on this occasion—the 75th anniversary of the Battle of North Point and the christening of the Star Spangled Banner.

While the amusements, the civic parades and military manœuvres are entertaining and to be commended, the greatest and grandest feature, the one that has appealed most successfully to the progressive and patriotic people of our dear old Maryland, is her agricultural exhibits. Let every one who can possibly do so attend the Exposition, see for themselves what we have done and can do, and learn from experience and success of others what energy, pluck, determination and intelligence can accomplish. "Maryland, My Maryland" will be the song of every man, woman and child at Pimlico.

PROGRAM.

The program of the week of the Exposition is as follows:

MONDAY, SEPT. 9.

Visit of President Harrison and his Cabinet. Civic and trades parade, 10 A. M.
Races at Pimlico, 3 P. M.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 10.

Horses and cattle sales at Pimlico, 10 to 12 A. M.
Awarding of premiums for horses and cattle at Pimlico.
Races at Pimlico, 3 P. M.
Tournament at Pimlico, 8 P. M.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 11.

Horse and cattle sales at Pimlico, 10 to 12 A. M.
Awarding of premiums in household and other departments at Pimlico.
Races at Pimlico, 3 P. M.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 12.

Parade of labor organizations.
Horse and cattle sales at Pimlico, 10 to 12 o'clock.
Representation of Battle of North Point at Pimlico, 5 P. M.
Vocal concert and massed band concert at close of battle.
Dedication of new Post Office at 8 P. M.
Maryland ball. 10 P. M.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 13.

Parade of soldiers, 9 A. M.
Horse and cattle sales at Pimlico, 10 to 12.
Races at Pimlico, 3 P. M.
Bombardment Fort McHenry, 8 P. M.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 14.

Horse and cattle sales, 10 to 12, and races at Pimlico at 3 P. M.

HALF RATES TO BALTIMORE.

The most extensive and interesting exposition Maryland has ever known will be held in Baltimore, September 9th to 14th, 1889.

The program of the Exposition promises a great and diversified display of products and machinery, an extensive exhibition of live stock, races, and horse and cattle sales. Other features include an imposing industrial and civic parade, composed of two hundred floats and fifty thousand uniformed men, the celebration of the battle of North Point, and a representation of the bombardment of Fort McHenry. The handsome new Post Office will be dedicated with appropriate ceremonies, participated in by the President of the United States and his Cabinet.

For the benefit of visitors the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore, Baltimore and Potomac, and Alexandria and Fredericksburg Railroad Companies will sell excursion tickets to Baltimore, from September 7th to 14th, valid for return until September 21st, from all stations on their lines, at a single fare for the round trip.

THE WONDERS OF ELECTRICITY.

To show the wonders of electricity it may be stated that Thomas A. Edison, the electrical wizard, is engaged upon an invention which will enable a person to see the face of another while he is talking through a telephone, no matter how long the distance. The JOURNAL stated about a year since that a French electrician was engaged upon a similar invention. Think of a gentleman and his wife telephoning across the ocean, one in Europe and the other in America, and seeing each others faces whilst so doing! And to hear him say—"Hello! deary!" and she responding, "Well, hubby!" Then, to see them kiss each other. That will be funny. It is hoped the wizard's life may be spared many years that he may confer additional benefits upon mankind.

ROUTE OF PARADE CHANGED.

Superintendent Latrobe, of Druid Hill Park, has written to Chief Marshal Supplee that it will be impossible for the trades' display to go through the park because of the limbs of many oak trees which hang too low over the roads to permit the floats to pass under them. The route of the parade has been in consequence changed, and will lead from Broadway to Baltimore street, to Eutaw street, to Madison avenue, to Boundary avenue, to Reisterstown Pike, to rear of Druid Hill Park, to Pimlico Road, to Pimlico.

☞Charles R. Flint, of New York, and ex-U. S. Senator Henry G. Davis, of West Virginia, have been appointed delegates on the part of the United States to the Congress of American Nations to meet in Washington, D. C., in October next, in place of ex-Gov. Whyte, of Maryland, and J. R. G. Pitkin, of New Orleans.

☞President Harrison and Mrs. Harrison left Deer Park for Philadelphia on Wednesday 4th, and were guests of Postmaster Wanamaker. On Monday the President and Mrs. Harrison will visit the Baltimore Exposition and witness the Industrial Parade. They then expect to return to Deer Park.

☞The disreputable means by which Sheriff Flack obtained a divorce from his wife have all been laid bare by one of the Judges in New York. The decree of divorce will no doubt be annulled, and Flack will be, or ought to be driven from the office of Sheriff.

☞Mr. Skipwith Wilmer, whose name has been mentioned in connection with the Mayoralty of Baltimore, says he does not want the position, and would not accept it under any circumstances.

It is claimed that under its Constitution as a State Idaho's expenses will be $50,000 or $60,000 less per annum than it has cost to run the Territorial government.

Mr. Blaine—"I know I'm not what the world calls a good man, Lucille, but I love you; and if you'll only marry me I swear I'll reform."

Lucille—"If you love me, what's the matter with a reformatory, and save me the pains and expense?"—Judge.

The startling fact has been discovered that 3,285,209 bushels of peanuts are consumed in this country every year. It is suspected that 251,306 bushels of them are slain in the upper galleries of theatres, and that 276,408 bushels are eaten in street cars and court rooms.

OUR BALTIMORE LETTER.

A Season of Beginnings—The Wanderers Returning—Too Soon for Our Boastings—"A Great Financial Success"—Sugar at Curtis Bay—The Sly and Gentle Oyster—Our "Scrambling Crustacean"—The World's Greatest Crab Market—Baltimore's Benefactors.

BALTIMORE, September 6th, 1889.

It is not wonderful that our Hebrew citizens formally begin their year at about this season, considering that so many of the religious, political, business, and social enterprises of the community have their inception, or at least take on new life and vigor, at this particular period of the year. Without at all intending to do anything of the kind, we actually do make a start in most of our affairs somewhere near the autumnal equinox, and then work as high pressure, through the winter and spring, until we will and collapse under the intense heats of summer, when we throw down our occupations, and rush off to the mountains or sea-side, to gather up strength and energy for a new course of endeavors, and as soon as the intense heat is over everybody comes rushing back, eager to resume the old life which was so lately cast down as a burden too heavy to be borne.

Consequently our streams of returning wanderers are now in full flood, rolling in with much freight of preachers and politicians, business men and society people, small babies and large crews of all varieties of school children; all and sundry of whom are needed to keep the affairs of our city from drifting into hopeless stagnation. Of which, however, we are in no sort of danger at present. For not only have the clergymen who left their ninety and nine home-sheep to search over Europe, Asia, and Africa, for a possible stray hundredth, come back full of vim and vigor; and the politicians returned in prime campaign order; the business men freighted with enterprises of much pith and moment; and the small fry brimful of mirth and mischief; but we are just on the eve of our grand Exposition, for which we have so long been making extensive preparations, and wherewith we expect to eclipse all our own big show records, and make ourselves a great name, among all the famed celebrators of this continent.

It will be time enough to boast of this Expository performance after it has been performed, though there is not now any question that with favorable weather we shall have a good deal of exulting to do. So neither will we crow yet over any political prospects, but will wait until the chicks are hatched over which the whole feathered fraternity shall have a right to cackle. For there are too many eggs in the nest now—especially in the Mayor's nest—to make it possible to prevent some of them coming to grief. But now that the rival factions in the field of Democracy have laid aside their old strifes, and have agreed to scratch harmoniously together, we expect to see a fine brood of well-elected officials, as the result of our sitting rooster's political endeavors.

It is a pity that the crows from our campmeetings do not furnish us with sure grounds for triumphant faith in the pious achievements of certain of our religious confraternities, for the future, either. It may, of course, be owing to the ground upon which these proceedings were taken, but for one reason or another, the camp-meeting as a piety producing machine seems to be falling into disrepute. In fact, there is quite a party growing up now, among the camp-meeting people themselves, who aver that the usefulness of that institution, as a spiritual agency, has been outlived, already. The physical virtues of the camp-ground are still very great, no doubt. For a charming retreat amid shady groves, where one can have the luxuries of city hotel life, and be able to dress and make a display; to hear fine music and fancy preaching, and mingle with festive crowds; where the young folks can get up secular parties and go off frolicking; and the whole key vender larks with his carpet-bag or pint bottles, the camp is full of possibilities, no doubt: but the piety business, no longer flourishes there, it seems. The fact that the summing up of the work of a camp-meeting as "a great financial success," is now accepted as an encomium upon it, stamps the enterprise in its modern character. It may be a very pleasant method of taking a season of harmless recreation; but in the name of consistency would it not be wiser to call a spade a spade?

It is said that our new sugar refinery scheme is far enough advanced for us to be able to do some boasting on that score, however. We are told that all the capital has been subscribed, the most of it by Baltimoreans, too. The business is to be located at Curtis Bay, where a little town is growing up to meet its demands. It has been announced that the plans and specifications for the refinery buildings have been submitted and approved, and that an artesian well has been sunk to a depth of 110 feet, which will yield 750,000 gallons of water a day. The new works, it is supposed, will employ more than 500 men; which would do something towards counterbalancing the Mount Clare discharges. Such railroad arrangements have been made as will practically place the refinery within the limits of the city with regard to the hauling of its products. And it is hoped that this business will bring back to our port the hundreds of vessels which used to bring goods to us and take away cargoes of sugar. Which would help to brighten up prospects about our wharfs, and so further aid in booming our beloved city.

But about whatever else our boasting may be doubtful there is no shadow of dubitation over the return of the meek and gentle oyster from the seaside resorts where he has been summering and growing corpulent. It is true that he does not present himself in the most exclusively particular society until about a month later than this date. Yet it is a comfort to know that he is here; that he has come numerously, and come to stay all winter; and that he is in fine feather, and first class condition. They tell us that the oyster fattens upon rain, and that he particularly enjoys a diet of mud from the mountain side. But the sly fellow knows how to flavor the rain-water wonderfully, from some bottled up stores that he keeps down in the bottom of the deep, for there is no taste of rain-water about his juicy sides when he lands on these shores. And as to the mountain mud business, if it is not a slander altogether, why he possesses a valuable secret concerning "the alchemy of transmutations," which the dwellers in hill countries would be delighted to discover. For then they could fatten up their lizards and tadpoles to the lusciousness of our dreamy bivalves, and they would not have to use the persuasive powers of the shucking-knife, either, to induce these creatures to be introduced into society. The oyster holds his peace, however; and perhaps this is the explanation of his proverbial silence.

It is only the tongers whom the law allows to capture oysters during this month; and Swan Point, the Chester and other rivers furnish our supplies for that time. On the first of October the scraping season begins, while the dredging is delayed until the 15th of that month. Then the packers and shippers will get up their steam, and they expect to do a large business this winter. The authorities tell us that the State has planted many thousands of bushels of shells at Craighill, Fishing Bay, Tangier, Kent, and various places along the western shore; from which places the raw shippers obtain their most profitable supplies. It is to be hoped, however, that the shippers will not have sufficient business to absorb all our home supplies, as of late years they have come very near doing, sometimes. At least, they have put up and sent off all the best of our stock, and left us only the inferior qualities.

The oyster has, however, a rival whose importance has recently been increasing very rapidly. It is that "scrambling crustacean," familiarly known as the crab. Our Sun paper tells us that Baltimore is the greatest crab-market in the world. That between the first of May and the first of October there is an average of 1,000 dozens of crabs received here per day: while at the height of the season the average daily arrival is 400 barrels, containing about fifteen dozens each. It seems that the demand for soft crabs is greater this year than ever before, while the price for them is lower than usual. The same authority tells us that Cridland ships more soft crabs than any other point in Maryland, Deal's Island ranking next; and South, and West, and Magothy Rivers furnish large shipments.

The soft crab is, of course, mainly a summer fruit. It is brought up from the lower part of the Chesapeake some time in April, and as the season advances it ripens along, higher up the Bay, and bloom on until the cold weather sets in. Whereas, the sweet, juicy hard crab is a perennial production, though it does not blossom so freely in the winter, as it does all summer long as attested by the multitudes of boys and men who every week go in search of the hard shells and bring home great bags and baskets full of them, which would greatly swell the foregoing statistics, if any estimate were made of them. It is said that a trout line is the proper implement to be used in the taking of hard crabs; while the soft ones many be gathered in a drag net attached to small sailboats. And it is asserted that we are extravagant enough to spend $75,000 for crabs every year. They are worth it, however.

While we are in the line of boasting it is only right and proper that we should glorify ourselves in a case concerning which we have a right to claim a proud distinction. We often allow other people to depreciate us, and even depreciate ourselves, but when we come to consider the claims of Baltimore's benefactors to a recognition at our hands, we have no right to do either the one or the other of these unjust deeds. The will of the late John W. McCoy, who left several thousand dollars to each of a dozen humane and charitable institutions of this city, and valuable legacies to the Peabody, and the Johns Hopkins, has given us another proof that whatever Baltimore many lack she can boast a long line of sons who have been affectionately generous to her.

When we begin to count them up, we find names of Peabody, Brady, Greenwood, Shriver, Hopkins, Wilson, and McCoy, who have bequeathed their fortunes to such philanthropic

ALL THOSE TWO PIECES OR PARCELS OF LAND,

Situate in the Second Election District of said county, and thus described:

Beginning for the first thereof at a stone heretofore set up in the ground at the beginning of a tract of land called "Bear Thicket discovered," it being the beginning of the second described parcel of land in the deed from Philip Lawrenson to William Potts, dated on or about the 4th day of December, 1823, and recorded among the Land Records of Baltimore County, in Liber W. G., No. 196, folio 629, &c., and running thence bounding on the first line of the second parcel conveyed to the said William Potts as aforesaid south sixty-eight degrees east one hundred and twenty-five perches to the centre of the Franklin Road; thence running along the centre of said road north thirty-nine degrees west six and two tenths perches; thence north twenty-two degrees east thirty-seven perches; thence north twenty and one-half degrees east fifty-six perches; thence north sixteen and one-half degrees east sixteen perches to the centre of the Windsor Mill Road; thence running along the centre of said road north forty-nine and one-half degrees west ninety-eight and eight-tenths perches to the south forty-six degrees west one hundred and ninety-four perches line of the land conveyed by Philip Lawrenson to William Potts as aforesaid; thence running and bounding on said line south forty-six degrees west one hundred and forty-three perches to the end of said line; thence south forty-five degrees east twenty-nine and three-tenths perches to the place of beginning, containing

ONE HUNDRED ACRES OF LAND, MORE OR LESS.

Beginning for the second thereof at a stone, the beginning of the whole tract of land called "Bear Thicket," and running with the given line reversely north forty-five degrees west twenty-nine perches to a stone marked "29;" thence south forty-eight degrees west five perches to the north edge of the Dogwood Road; thence south fifty-five degrees east twenty-nine and three-quarters perches to the beginning, containing

SEVENTY-TWO SQUARE PERCHES OF LAND, MORE OR LESS.

Saving and excepting thereout, however, all that parcel of land situate in said county, being a part of all those two parcels of land which by deed dated April 15th, 1868, and recorded among the Land Records of said county, in Liber E. H. No. 60, folio 165, &c., were conveyed by Benj. H. D. Bull and wife to said John D. Hammond, which is thus described:

Beginning for the same at a stone at the corner of the second described parcel of land in said deed, and at the end of the south forty-six degrees west one hundred and forty-three perches line of the first described parcel of land in said deed; thence running and bounding on the secondly described parcel of land south forty-eight degrees west ninety-eight feet to the centre of the Dogwood Road; thence bounding on the centre of said road south fifty-five degrees east two hundred and twenty-seven feet; thence north forty-nine degrees east four hundred and seventy-seven feet; thence north fifty-four degrees west two hundred and twenty-four feet to the above south forty-six degrees west one hundred and forty-three perches line; thence bounding on said line south forty-six degrees west three hundred and ninety feet to the beginning, containing

TWO AND ONE-HALF ACRES OF LAND, MORE OR LESS,

Being the same two parcels of land conveyed by the said Bull and wife to the said John D. Hammond as aforesaid, excepting the parcel above excepted.

This property is beautifully situated in the Second Election District of the county, about five miles from Baltimore city, at the end of the Franklin Turnpike, on
