DESPICABLE POLITICS.

Among the very few excessively bigoted persons in Baltimore county who seem to be as afraid of the Pope of Rome as the devil is, said to be of holy water, are that desperately straight-laced class who are endeavoring to excite a few of their own kidney against a nominee on the Democratic ticket because he is a member of the Catholic Church. Among liberal-minded Christian people a man's religious opinions are, and ought to be, of no consequence against his fitness for an office for which he may be nominated, by any party, to be voted for by the whole people. There ought always to be, and we feel satisfied there is, becoming contempt for the person or persons who would attempt to excite one portion of their fellow citizens against the other because of their religious opinions. It is philosophically impossible that we should all feel alike, or think alike, upon either religious or political dogmas. There would be no use for parties or for churches if we did: and Heaven would be peopled with as incongruous a mass of impracticable beings as ought to fill that other place which sinners of all sorts are urged to shun.—We hear of evidences where this desperate class of politics is being used in this canvas as above indicated. It is almost too small to refer to; but we do not think it should be allowed to pass by unrebuked.

FALLEN STILL-BORN.

Thus far we have not noticed, heard, or learned of a single prominent Democrat in Baltimore county, who is known to be in favor of the fusion ticket nominated by Mr. John T. Ensor last week. As Mr. Ensor cannot control even the voters of his own party, he ships out his net to gather in any stray voters that may be floating about. His campaign is to be a go-as-you-please affair. He says he must succeed by fusion as his only hope. As jokes are said to be free in harvest so will all manner of modes to gain votes. Even the feeble old Christian man, the Pope of Rome, is held up, as it were, a scare-crow, to excite the religious bigotry of a few men who do not approve of the tenets of the Roman Catholic Church as being consonant with their religious faith. It is a sorry piece of business to attempt to excite religious bigotry in a political campaign. It shows that the wretched leaven of old Know-Nothingism, still flickers in the ashes of and that even now after a lapse of thirty-five years there are still a few people who cling to proscription in lieu of a shibboleth of patriotic, free action.

FREDERICK FAIR.

If our readers want a day's pleasure let them attend the Frederick Fair, to be held at Frederick City, Md., October 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th next. This Fair is the largest of its kind held in Maryland, and the attractions this year surpass all previous exhibitions. The racing will be one of the grandest features that crowd the week. There will be seventeen races—four each day—for which 130 horses have been entered, among them the most noted in the Eastern States. Secretary of War Tracy, Secretary of Agriculture Rusk and other members of President Harrison's Cabinet will attend and addresses upon topics of interest to everybody will be made by Secretary Rusk, Hon Mortimer Whitehead, Dr. M. G. Ellzey and others. Miss Myrtie Peak and her racing combination will give exhibitions in wagon races, and bareback riding without saddle or bridle on horses, each day of the Fair. Miss Peak has with her ten thoroughbred horses, and is the champion long distance rider of the world. The exhibitions will be one grand and complete aggregation of Live Stock, Machinery, Agricultural, Floricultural and Horticultural products, and no one who visits this Fair need apprehend any want of entertainment.

☞Commander Kellogg, Commander Evans and Capt. Shepard all declined the command of the United States war vessel the Kearsarge, which took Fred. Douglas and his white wife to Hayti upon the ground that they declined to eat at the same table with Douglas and his wife. All agreed to provide a private table for Douglas, but the old negro demanded to eat with the officers, which they did not fancy.—And no one will find fault with them. Capt. Whiting has been an equipment officer at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

☞The JOURNAL was in error last week in mentioning the names of Messrs. Samuel E. Parks, Wm. Bowen and Joseph S. Bowen as taking part in the Independent movement at the Republican County Convention in Towson last week. They had nothing to do with the movement and we regret the mention of their names. At the time Mr. Wm. Bowen was in Baltimore, and Mr. Joseph S. Bowen was at Loch Raven, and Mr. Parks, though in the town, had nothing to do with it.

☞The government has sent Fred. Douglass to Hayti, on the United States war vessel Kearsarge. Fred. can thus have the whole vessel to himself, and there ought to be no trouble as to race caste, unless he wants the officers to eat at the table with him and his white wife.

PATENTS GRANTED.—Patents granted to citizens of Maryland during the past week and reported for the JOURNAL by C. A. Snow & Co., Patent Lawyers, opposite U. S. Patent Office, Washington, D. C., are as follows:

P. M. Mishler, Hagerstown, Md., hedge.

A ROOM FOR CONSULTATION.—The Democratic Executive Committee for Baltimore county have rented Room 117 at the Carrolon Hotel, Baltimore, for consultation when in the city, and for a rendezvous for county Democrats during the campaign.

☞Hon. J. Fred. C. Talbott, Insurance Commissioner, has re-appointed Mr. J. J. Jackson, Chief Clerk, a position Mr. Jackson has held the past ten years. The appointment meets with universal commendation.

☞The Republicans themselves denounce Fred. Douglas as "an office-hunting negro."—Tut! Tut!

DEMOCRATIC JUDICIAL NOMINEES.

In their issues of the 29th of September, our editorial brothers of the Ægis and Democrat, Bel Air, make the annexed observations as to the Judicial nominations recently made by the Conventions:

From the Ægis, September 27th:

"The committee appointed by the Judicial Convention to inform Judge Burke of his nomination as a candidate for Associate Judge, very properly congratulated the Democrats of Harford and Baltimore counties upon the choice of a candidate made through their representatives. It is, in deed, a source of congratulation that both of the candidates for Judgship—Judge Fowler as well as Judge Burke—are men for whom no citizen need hesitate to vote. Judge Fowler has been on the bench for seven years, and has shown himself to be an upright, wise and impartial Judge. No man on the bench has labored more arduously and assiduously and he deserves the promotion to the Chief Judgeship of the Circuit. Judge Burke, while new to the duties of the position which now he holds by appointment of the Governor, is one of the brightest lawyers of Baltimore county. He is a gentleman of fine ability, courteous and dignified in manner, possessing the confidence and warm esteem of all who know him, and he, too, should receive every Democratic vote in both counties.

The Judiciary is a high and sacred trust, and the Democrats may well feel proud that they have an opportunity of continuing on the bench two such men as Judge Fowler and Judge Burke."

From the Democrat, September 27th:

"The nomination, Monday last, by the Judicial Convention that assembled in Bel Air, of Judge Burke for Associate Justice of the Circuit, composed of Baltimore and Harford counties, was anticipated. Since his appointment by Governor Jackson as the successor of Associate Fowler when the latter was advanced to the Court of Appeals, the Democracy of the counties have demanded his nomination. So far did this sentiment prevail that there was no opposition to Judge Burke in the primaries of the conventions of either county.

The Judge is a son of Nicholas Burke, who was Sheriff of Baltimore county in 1871. He entered on the practice of the law in 1875 and attained such distinction in his profession that in 1883 the Democratic party nominated and elected him State's Attorney and re-elected him four years later. The latter position he gave up to accept that of Associate Judge a few weeks ago.

Mr. Burke is about 35 years of age, in robust health, a lawyer of acknowledged ability and enjoys the confidence and respect of lawyers and laymen. He is a just and upright Judge, and as the nominee of the Democratic party is entitled to, and should receive the support of every Democrat in the two counties."

Under the caption "Support the Nominees," the Democrat also remarks:

"The nomination of Judge Burke completes the list of local Democratic candidates to be voted for at November election. Primary elections and conventions, whose fairness has not been and cannot be questioned, these candidates have been chosen by a majority of their fellow Democrats to represent the party. As candidates for nomination there were none but personal reasons why these gentlemen should receive the votes of fellow Democrats, but as nominees of the party stand on a different footing. As such they have a right to expect—and should receive the support of every voter who claims to be a Democrat. They have been placed by their party in the front of the fight to uphold the cause of Democracy, and to oppose them now on personal grounds, or allow them to be defeated through lack of interest, would not be discreditable to them, but to the party which nominated them—would be a breach of party faith, disastrous in its consequences, and to avoid the possibility of which should engage the lively and personal attention of every man who believes in Democratic principles. There are in Harford between six and seven hundred more Democrats than Republican voters. Let every Democrat give his party nominees not only his good will but his active support, and on the fifth of next November that majority will raised to yet higher figures."

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR CONCLAVE.

The 21th triennial conclave of the Knights Templar of the jurisdiction of the United States will begin in Washington city on Monday next 7th inst. For months past the local commanderies have been industriously engaged in preparation for the event. Committies have been appointed to arrange all the details necessary for the comfort, convenience and entertainment of the visiting Templars and their ladies and friends. Quarters have been secured for all organizations which have signified their intention to attend. There is plenty of room for all the friends of the visiting Knights who may accompany them, and for the host of strangers which it is expected will be attracted to Washington by the grand spectacular parade of Tuesday. Various entertainments for the edification of the visiting Knights have been devised, and the whole week will be a round of festivity. The Grand Encampment will hold sessions each day, at which business of special interest to members of the fraternity will be transacted.

In the parade it is estimated that there will be 22,000 men in line. The commanderies come from all parts of the United States, and every State and Territory will be represented, either by its Grand Commandery or by subordinate commanderies. Fully 250 cities will have separate bodies in line.

The parade will be reviewed by President Harrison, who will occupy a stand erected in front of the White House. Another stand will be erected for the Grand Master of the Encampment, Charles Roome, of New York. The parade will move at 11.30 o'clock. The organizations in line will assemble in the streets immediately adjacent to the Capitol.

The Chief Marshal of the parade will be Myron M. Parker, of Washington city, with Harrison Dingman as Chief Staff. There will be 12 divisions, each under the command of some Eminent Sir Knight. The officers and delegates to the Grand Encampment will follow the First Division in carriages, with a detachment of Cœur de Leon Commandery No. 23 of New York City as special escort to the Most Eminent Grand Master. Many State headquarters will be established during the conclave.

The Grand Commandery of Maryland will have its headquarters at the old Globe Printing Office, on Pennsylvania Avenue, where they will entertain all who call.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES FOR JUDGES.

The Republican Convention for the Third Judicial District assembled at Bel Air on the 3d inst. The delegates to the Convention were—

Baltimore County.—Hon. Geo. Yellott, Glenn McComas, Daniel Shamberger, Frederick Gross, B. Howard Mayes, Daniel Vondersmith.

Harford County.—S. O. McCourtney, J. Whitaker Carroll, Millard F. Minnick, Joshua McComas, P. L. Hooper.

Judge Yellott was elected Chairmain and S. O. McCourtney Secretary.

The Baltimore county delegation offered the following resolution:

"WHEREAS, The Hon. Wm. S. Keech, of Baltimore county, has announced himself as an independent candidate for the Chief Judgeship of the Third Judicial Circuit of Maryland, and recognizing in Mr. Keech a man eminently qualified to adorn the bench of Maryland, we deem it inexpedient to nominate a candidate for the position, and we hereby recommend and advise all Republicans to give Mr. Keech their earnest and hearty support."

The Harford county delegation objected to this resolution and refused to vote for it.

Mr. John T. Ensor was then nominated for Associate Judge by the Harford delegation, which was seconded by the Baltimore county delegation.

At this point Judge Yellott handed a letter to the Secretary to read. It was from Mr. Ensor, declining the nomination. Mr. D. Hopper Emory was then placed in nomination and was selected by acclamation as the candidate.

The refusal of the Harford delegation to vote for the resolution endorsing Mr. Keech is a significant circumstance, and fully sustains the information obtained by the editor of the JOURNAL upon the occasion of the Democratic Judicial Convention, that the Republicans of Harford were opposed to any fusion, or, as they termed it, mongrel ticket; they wanted a clean Republican ticket. Without the shadow of a doubt this is also the desire of the Republicans of Baltimore county. The ballots on the day of election will prove this.

☞James A. Flack, Sheriff of New York city, his son Wm. Flack, Civil Justice Ambrose Monell, Joseph Weeks the Referee, Mrs. Raymone (Sheriff Flack's paramour) and George D. Hart, have been indicted by the Grand Jury of New York city for participation in fraudulent divorce proceedings. The Grand Jury also recommends the impeachment of Judge Bookstaver. The entire proceedings are most disgraceful. The Sheriff is rich and the Court should see, if possible, that Mrs. Flack should receive a support from the Sheriff's property.

☞At the Republican State Convention at Westminster on the 1st inst. George L. Wellington, of Allegany county, was nominated for Comptroller of the Treasury.

A native of India residing in London expressed a wish lately to send by parcel post to India the ashes of his cremated brother, to be dropped into the sacred Ganges. He was informed that unless he could limit the weight of the parcel to eleven pounds the Post Office could offer him no facilities, and he sadly withdrew.

OUR BALTIMORE LETTER.

Michaelmas—Angelology—A Shadowy Theme—Man Not an Immortal Sinner—No Angels, No Christianity—A Choice of Objectionable Theories—What Talmage Thinks About It—Democratic Doings—The Original Mugwumps—A Kiteless Tail.

BALTIMORE, October 4th, 1889.

The occurrence of Michaelmas, within the last week, has thrust upon the attention of church-goers sundry considerations which it is the tendency of this busy, practical age to leave quite out of sight. In fact, it seems to be one of the chief missions of the church to keep alive in the world certain impractical ideas and facts which would otherwise probably be fated to fall into a sort of mythological oblivion. And so it continually happens that, just in the midst of our most materialistic projects and plans, the church has a way of bringing us up, all standing, by confronting us with some startling subject which seems to belong to some other age of the world, or to some other world than ours.

And Michaelmas is one of the most emphatic of these occasions. Here we are, just pausing to recover breath from our summer's dissipations, and gathering up our strength to take still deeper plunges into the ocean of pleasure through the coming winter's season, when we go to church on a bright Sunday morning, to find the place filled with intellectual visions of "angels and archangels, and all the glorious company of heaven;" and are instructed in the science of angelology, as calmly and placidly as though the visible manifestations of the celestials were an every-day occurrence to us, instead of being objects that would terrify us out of our seven senses, if they should, by any possibility chance to appear to us.

If there are any such beings as angels, however, and they are in any way connected with us and our fortunes, it may be advisable for us to take the celestial subject into consideration, once in a while, at least. So that, in this case, it is a wise regulation of the church to set before us a view of the angelic question; which, for reasons best known to the ecclesiastical authorities, is appointed to be done on the 29th day of every September. This festival was, consequently, especially observed at the church which is expressly devoted to the archangel St. Michael, and the holy angels in general; but it was also honored elsewhere with appropriate Biblical lessons and instructions, whereby, perhaps, the unseen world was rendered a little more real and veritable than people usually realize it to be.

Among others, Dr. Hodges, of St. Paul's, made the celestials the subject of his last Sunday's discourse; and treated his cultured and scientific audience to an interesting dissertation upon this shadowy theme. This reverend gentleman showed that although the Biblical revelations concerning the angels are very limited and reserved, there is still a remarkable amount of information regardlng them to be gathered from the Scriptures. He explained that the Bible, from end to end, teaches the existence, in the same universe with ourselves, of orders and ranks of heavenly beings, who have forms similar to ours, but are of a more ethereal nature, and endowed with greater powers, than we; who are yet deeply interested in us, and whose business it is to minister to us; who are the guardians of the saints, and rejoice over repentant sinners.

The Doctor showed how the angels have been associated with human history ever since the Israelites were stationed at the gate of Paradise to keep the way to the tree of life and prevent Adam from becoming an immortal sinner. That angels were associated with the whole Jewish economy, as may be seen by the experiences of Abraham, and the other patriarchs; by those of Moses, and others of the prophets, through all the history of the people of Israel. While as for the Christian dispensation, it was ushered in by angelic messengers, who were the attendants of Christ in all the most critical epochs of his life, from the manger to the sepulchre; and who were also the visible directors of affairs, in many instances, during the establishment of the early church.

So that, really, it would appear, from the Doctor's exposition, that up to the time of the triumphant establishment of Christianity in the world, the existence of angels, somewhere, and their frequent connection with human affairs, might have been regarded in the light of settled scientific facts. And facts of such a nature that, as the Doctor affirmed, no one can believe in the Bible, or be a Christian at all, without believing in the existence of angels; since even the Lord's Prayer, wherein we are taught to pray that God's will may be done on earth as in heaven, teaches us the existence of holy heavenly beings; and the eucharistic office, which dates from apostolic times, and of course embodies the teachings of inspired authorities, makes us declare that we are uniting our worship with that of the "angels and archangels, and all the glorious company of heaven."

Moreover, it is amply evident that up to the date mentioned, the angels were on very friendly terms with humanity; but the Doctor omitted to explain the reason why these heavenly beings have ceased to appear in the world since the Christian religion has prevailed here. One would suppose, indeed, that if the effect of Christianity is to make us more heavenly in our characters, and of course more like the angels themselves, they would take more interest than ever in us, and be much more friendly and sociable with us. And then, what a chance they would have now, in this particular age, and at this particular date, to confound the materialistic scientists, and overthrow their atheistic theories!

When we think of the numerous questions which their superior wisdom could settle for us; how much they could present us, so that we could have certainties, instead of faith, upon which to base our conclusions, it seems remarkably strange for our angelic friends to desert us in these trying emergencies. And it really would be a satisfaction to have some adequate explanation of such neglect and remissness. There are two theories that might possibly account for the fact of the cessation of the angelic manifestations, but neither of them is at all pleasant to contemplate.

It may be suspected, for instance, by the infidel element, that the celestials are afraid to expose themselves to the scientific tests of this wise age, and would find their fine etheriality shattered by the rude touch of our materialistic iconoclasm. But we would be sorry to think them too selfish to risk something to help us in our need. And on the other hand, there is the shadow of the suspicion that we are such bad, weak, poor, inconsistent Christians that they are too much ashamed of us to have anything further to do with us, and have resolved to cut us entirely. Which would be a very humiliating reflection if we could believe that we are at all deserving of such treatment.

But, apropos of the manifestations of angels, here is an extract from a verbatim report of a recent sermon of De Witt Talmage, who, by the way, is by no means addicted to spiritualism. He says:

"There is a class of phenomena which makes me think that the spiritual and the heavenly world may after a while make a demonstration in this world which will bring all moral and spiritual things to a climax. Now, I am no spiritualist; but every intelligent man has noticed that there are strange and mysterious things which indicate to him that perhaps the spiritual world is not so far off as sometimes we conjecture. And that after a while, from the spiritual and heavenly world there may be a demonstration upon our world for its betterment. We call it magnetism, or we call it mesmerism, or we call it electricity, because we want some term to cover up our ignorance. I do not know what it is. I never heard an audible voice from the other world. I am somewhat afraid of this, however, that the veil between this world and the next is getting thinner and thinner."

The descent from heavenly things to politics, may be a long step, but it is an easy one, as the proverbs concerning a downward course have always made evident. The plane is not so much inclined as usual, this time, however, for our present politics are of a brand much superior to those with which we are sometimes furnished. The harmonious action of the Democratic Convention last week and the excellent ticket which it nominated are subjects of great gratification to the good and true members of the party in this locality. The great interest taken in the political situation by our sound and substantial citizens during this campaign repels the charges of indifference in the people, on the one hand, and that of the inevitable dominance of the Bosses, on the other. And in the selection of Mr. Davidson for the Mayoralty, and of good men for all the other places on the ticket, the honest, upright, leading citizens, who are incapable of the corrupt practices attributed to the professional politician, we have the promise and pledge of the new order that is to be introduced into our political affairs.

There are malcontents in the Democratic army, it is true; but so there are always; and so there have been everywhere ever since Satan proved himself recalcitrant in the heavenly courts, and headed the original Mugwumps; who have subsequently so sedulously been sowing the seeds of their principles throughout the world. The disaffected Democrats, or assistant Republicans, as they are more appropriately called, make a great mistake in calling themselves Independents, for they are not, and cannot be anything more than a mere makeweight, or ballast for the one party, or the other. They are only the bunch of stuff tied to the tail of somebody's kite to steady its flight through the air; and their misfortune is to have no kite of their own to which they can attach themselves; and their only choice is, as to whose kite they will be affixed. They would display much more self-reliance by deciding to be one thing or the other, than by wavering as they do, from one point to another, and possessing no local habitation anywhere.

He (kissing her once more.) "Very well; I have given it back. If you make that complaint against me I shall charge you with receiving stolen property, knowing it to be such."

The Political Campaign.

A CARD.

An anonymous circular purporting to give a history of a supposed conspiracy to unseat Judge Yellott in order to put me in his place, and indirectly asserting that I appeared before a committee of the Legislature at Barnum's Hotel to prefer charges against the Judge, has been largely circulated.

While such communications do not generally require a reply, yet it is perhaps proper that I should, as I now do, disclaim all knowledge of any such conspiracy. None such ever existed.

Second. I made no charges of any kind against Judge Yellott to Mr. Hubner's Special Committee, so called, nor to any other committee.

Third. I appeared at Barnum's Hotel before a committee composed of the delegations of Baltimore and Harford counties for the sole purpose of denying and refuting a charge I had heard had been made to that committee against me.

Having said what was necessary in my own defence I was asked by the committee if I had anything to say in regard to Judge Yellott. I replied that I had nothing to say and retired from the room
