Great Steel Works Near Baltimore.-The Pennsylvania Steel Company has been making rapid progress in the building of its iron and stee plant at Steelton, a few miles below Baltimore, Md. The blast furnace plant consists of four furnaces. each 85 by 22 feet, with a complete plant of Whitwell hot blast stoves. The furnaces are now all completed, and when blown in will run on foreign ore, making Bessemer pig iron. The company will also erect mills for making Bessemer steel rails. It is also its intention to have a shipbuilding plant in connection with these works. This department of the works will not, however, be developed until the new foundries and mills are all completed. The additional foundries, sheet mills, rolling mills, cupola houses, etc., will, when completed, be capable of producing everything in the way of steel ar-ticles that may be needed in the manufacture of ateam engines, steamships, steel bridges, steel rails, etc. The cupola house is to be 169 feet 6 inches ong by 87 feet wide, and was begun a few days ago. There is a small army of men at work. The converter house will be 120 feet long by 140 feet wide and 50 feet high, divided into three floors, and will have four cupolas for melting iron and two 15-ton Bessemer converters for converting the iron pigs into steel ingots. Next to the latter building there will be built a blooming mill and rail mill. It will be about 80 feet wide and 850 feet long. The minimum production of this mill will be 1,000 tons of steel rails per day. There is also being dug by the Company, from its property front to the Craighill channel, a channel 6,000 feet long, 200 feet wide, and 27 feet deep, one half of which is already fin-

Stump, on Green Spring Avenue, and was on his i way towards Roger's Station, on the Green Spring by Mr. George P. Beaseman. Dr. Charles G. Hill Branch of the Northern Central Railway, walking addressed the successful one, and Dr. J. H. Scarff upon the track, to deliver a letter to the baggage vert ten feet deep on the track which he would have to cross before reaching the station. The night was very dark and rainy. Col. Rogers was sure he knew | assisted by Col. Parry Lee Downs and Richard M. every inch of the way even if blindfolded. At the instant these thoughts were passing through his mind he stepped between the sleepers with his left foot, and, consequently, fell heavily between the rails. He recollects his head striking, and thinks it was upon the sleepers between the tracks. He also severely bruised his right side. He lay upon the sleepers for some time, unconscious, how long he does not know. Recovering consciousness his first thoughts were, where he was and what was the matter. He then crawled from the track and in about three or four minutes the train came thundering along. As soon as he could he make his way to his home, about half a mile distant, when it was found he was painfully injured. The right side of his face was bruised, and he believed a rib was broken. Dr. t. C. Massenburg was consulted next morning at lowson, and upon examination thought the rib was ot broken, but took the necessary precaution and

Major John I. Yellott, the State's Attorney for Balti-4 Cow Malady .- Eleven cows belonging to Mr. John T. Nelson, near Black Horse, are affected with Messrs, Wm. L. Marbury, John W. Walter and John new and strange disease. The symptoms are staring coat, swelled eye and general feverish appearance. The udders are swollen and have be come nearly dry. The little milk which they give has a bloody appearance. Dr. Patterson, the Veterinarian, was at Mr. Nelson's on Monday. He said the disease was a new one and has appeared in other parts of the State. A description of the dis-ease has been sent to the National Institute at Washington, and a cow which died of it is being dissected at the Johns Hopkins. None of Mr. Nelson's cows had died yet, and there are no other cases known in the neighborhood. Mr. Nelson is

Mr. Howard Cornthwait, of Fork, in the 11th District, started Howard Preston, colored, to Baltimore with a team of horses. When Howard reached the city the dazzling lights proved too strong a temptation for him, and in order to paint the town a carmine hue he conceived the bold design of swapping off one of the horses for a mule and a $5 bill. Then he imbibed freely of benzine, got a ride in the patrol wagon and was landed across the Falls. Mr. Cornthwait went to look up his team when the trade was brought to light. The trader of horses

OBITUARY. William Fitz Hugh Wharton. On Sunday last 27th ult. Wm. Fitz Hugh Wharlon, aged 47 years, died at his late residence in Baltimore after nearly two years illness from paralysis. He was a son of Dr. John O. Wharton, of Washing. ton county and a brother of the famous Col. Jack Wharton of Louisiana fame. The deceased entered the Confederate army when but a youth and served through the war as a member of the 1st Maryland Cavalry. The Southern cause never possessed a truer or braver or unselfish private soldier. He was known far and wide under the soubriquet of 'Chunk Wharton," and the old Confeds were in sore straits indeed when the lamented Wharton failed to rally the boys with a merry jest, or laughable darn, told with all the bonhomie and amiable manner for which he was especially noted. He came to Towson to reside about the year 1867, and took up the profession of law, and no more honorable practitioner ever graced the legal profession of Baltimore couny. He was appointed one of the Commissioners in Chancery and Examiner in Equity in 1868, which place he held until incapacitated from sickness.

Mr. Wharton was a member of the Society of the Army and Navy of the Confederate States in Maryland and also of the Maryland Line Association. His remains were taken to Hagerstown where they were interred in the family burying ground. He leaves one sister. Mrs. B. W. Crane, who is a widow. W. Horace Soner. W. Horace Soper, aged 69 years, the Registrar of the Maryland Agricultural College, died at his home in Baltimore on the 25th ult. The deceased was born in Montgomery county. He was the Secretary and Examiner of the School Board of Baltimore county from 1855 to 1865, and then Secretary of the State Board of Education for three years, from 1865 to 1863. He was widely known among the educa-tional men and women of the State. He was known as a man of the most unswerving integrity. Possessing a fund of general information, he was noted as an interesting and instructive conversationalist. Mr. Soper was the inventor of the Soper School Desk, which is now extensively used throughout the United States. There have been improvements added to it, but every patent retains the first principles of the desk. There is scarcely a school Maryland that does not use these desks. He leaves two children—Prof. F. A. Soper of the Baltimore City College and Mrs. Julia E. Cordray. His funeral took place on Sunday and was largely attended. The pail-bearers were R. C. McGinn, J. L. Turner, Thomas Bond, Prof. M. A. Newell, W. J. C. Dulany and Col. Alvord. The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Gibson, of the Whatcoat Methodis Church. A delegation from the College was also present as follows: Henry E. Alvord, President of the College; John D. Hurd, Professor of Chemistry; Wm. H. Zimmerman, Professor of Physics; Lieut. A. B. Scott, U. S. A., Commandant, and a number of students in uniform. One of the floral tributes was sent by the Maryland Agricultural College. The Kirby by shooting him with a pistol the 26th of last May in a saloon in Baltimore, and which was removed for trial to the Circuit Court for Raltimore County, was begun on Thursday, 31st ult. In the case of Geo. W. McCubbin, jointly indicted, his counsel, Mr. R. R. Boarman, had an affildavit and suggestion for removal, and that acted as a practical severance of the case. The following jurors from the regular panel wer aworn in the case—Richard Hutchins, Joseph Griffin, Aquila Chilcoat, Daniel Welsh, John H. Burnham, Geo. A. Galloway and Albin Jenkins. From a number of talesmen summoned by the Sheriff the following jurors to complete the panel were obtained : Frank McCarty, Wm. B. Miller, Julius Rudiger, Chas. L. Hammond and John Padian. Attorney, called the attention of the Court to the fact that an important witness in the case was now in such a condition that further indulgence would render him unfit to appear, and asked that he h placed in charge of the Sheriff. Deputy Sheriff Ristean took St. Ledger in charge and put him in the lock-up in the Court Room, but his loud talking there created some confusion, and he was taken down to jail by Sheriff Tracey and put in a cell to meditate on his situation until he was wanted Court. On the way down to the jail he took a notion to resist, but the Sheriff gave him a tight grip on the arm and he surrendered quickly and went along quietly Major Yellott, the State's Attorney, is not disposed especially in a murder trial. Sam Cooper Sentenced .- On Saturday, 26th ult.

Sam Cooper, who had been convicted of murder in the second degree for killing Policeman John T. Lloyd in Baltimore on the 4th of July last and whose trial was removed from Baltimore to the Circuit Court for Baltimore County, was brought up from jail by Deputy Sheriff Wm. M. Risteau. Judges Fowler and Burke were on the bench. Cooper was placed in the prisoner's dock and Chief Judge Fowler said : "Samuel Cooper, you have been tried and defended by able counsel for the murder of Officer Lloyd and you have been convicted. Judge Watters is not here to take part in the sentence. Have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon you?" Cooper arose and said he desired his counsel to speak for him. Mr. Mathews said the prisoner only desired to extend his thanks to the Court and others concerned in his trial. Judge Fowler then sentenced Cooper to 15 years in the penitentiary. Cooper was taken back to jail. Bail for Toole, Doyle, Hudson and Reynolds, who will now have an opportunity to explain the transaction in Court. Mr. Cornthwait recovered his at $5,000 each. Attorney-General Wm. Pinkney Whyte, Major Jno. Yellott and the prisoner's counsel, Messrs. Edgar

H. Gans and R. Stocket Mathews, were present in Court at the time he was sentenced. The Late Perley Ray Lovejoy .- At a special meeting of the Vestry of St. John's P. E. Church, Mt. Corn husking is going on very briskly about here and the crop is turning out very fine. By the way, this reminds us of lady farming. We have often read of Southern women who, deprived of all their comforts and help after the war, had to personally resort to farming to make a living, &c. Now we have two ladies living in this neighborhood who, howalmost farmers to the manor born. They own a small place and not very productive, either. They, however, have raised this season about 25 barrels of very superior corn, a fine lot of oats, some hay, potatoes, and a profusion of other vegetables, besides attending to 5 or 6 cows, one horse, pigs, chickens and their numberiess household duties known only to women; and this was all done with the only help of a small colored boy. Besides this, the elderly lady of the two is very much afflicted with bodily ailments much of her time and hardly able to get about. This is certainly a good showing and hard to beat.

Mr. Curtie Sparks, of the 5th District, is just now the busiest man around here. He is a paper hanger and has to work early and late to keep up with his contracts. He is a first-class mechanic and his work gives general satisfaction. Mrs. Emanuel Young and two daughters from Johnstown, Pa., who spent sometime here visiting relatives, and of whom we spoke in last week's JOURNAL, have returned to their homes. Mrs. Charles Prosser, of Corbett Station, has been quite ill for some time. Her recovery is very tedious. Dr. Alex. Mitchell is attending her. This place is flooded with political stickers, o slips, to be substituted for other names on the ticket which the party voting does not desire to support. The regular county conventions are always so absorbed in filling our

To Washington Stevenson, Esq.: Dear Sir:-In response to your request that should write a letter stating what, in my opinion, would be the best way to move for the abolition of tolls on roads passing through Baltimore county, I beg leave to offer the following suggestions: In the first place, I do not think it would be pracchanges so radical as those proposed, without first undertaking a thorough examination of the subject. Legislatures are generally conservative bodies, and before you can expect them to pass laws providing for a comprehensive system of public roads, it Republican party. Dr. Mudd, of Washington, D. | would be indispensable that you come before them with a well-matured plan, fortified by statistics as to the extent and cost of the private or corporate with a well-matured plan, fortified by statistics as to the extent and cost of the private or corporate property which you seek to convert to public use, and the estimated cost of improving and operating the roads so acquired. A great work of this kind cannot be be done off-hand, but requires study, consultation, and the collection of a large body of facts and figures.

It has been suggest that you apply to the Canada. I therefore suggest that you apply to the General Assembly of Maryland, at its next session, to pass an act establishing a commission of five persons, one of whom should be a practical engineer, one a what as follows: two to be appointed by the Gover-nor, one by the faculty of Johns Hopkins Univer-sity, one by the Maryland State Farmers' Association, and one by Centennial Grange. The commission should be instructed to collect all the necessary information as to the different turnpike roads passing through Baltimore county, their location, extent, and condition &c; also their value, which amount of dividend paid to their stockholders within ten years last past. The commission should also embody in their report (to be submitted to the General Assembly of 1892) detailed estimates of the cost of maintaining the roads, and a full account of the method which approves itself to them as the best method of building and operating roads to meet the requirements of the people of this county. Nor should the work of the commission stop even here; it ought to include in its survey all the roads of the county, and furnish estimates of the cost of improving them all, so as to make them conform to have long since outgrown the ploneer stage of civilization, many of our own roads are as much behind he requirements of the present day. While we the age as would be the case in farming operations If we were to use ploughs with wooder boards, sickles instead of reapers, and finits for threshing machines. If you seek to do nothing more than to buy out the turnpike companies and make their roads county roads, you will surely be met with this objection-"The turnpike roads are now well kept; most of your county roads are badly kept. If you make county roads of the turnpike roads, they will in a short time drift into the same condition as that of county roads at present, and cur last state will be worse than the first." The subject of an improved system of roads is one that is now attracting considerable attention the Baltimore Sun has published several excellent articles upon it, and would doubtless lend its power ful aid to any well-directed attempt to place roads on a betier tooting. By thus enlarging the scope of the work to be done by the proposed commission, you will be in a position to formulate a complete system of county roads, and to ask from the General Assembly of 1892 such legislation as would be necessary to carry your plans into operation. Now I hear some one saying: "Where shall we get he money to carry out so large a design?" To this would say-Obtain from the Legislature the neessary powers for the county to issue bonds for the equired expenditure, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding four per centum. The present bonds of he turnpike companies might be made exchangeaole for the new road bonds, pro rato. The arrange ments made with reference to these bonds ought t provide for their gradual repayment, but so that the process of repayment extend through a long term of years, in order that the coming generations pay their proper quota of the cost of permanent improvements. I prefer the plan of reducing a bonded debt by periodical drawings rather than by creating a sinking fund. It may also be asked-"How would so vast a road system be managed? Our County Commissioners liready have as much as they can attend to during their sessions." Whenever the public business de mands it, the law relating to County Commissioners can be so amended as to require them to sit four r five days in the week, instead of two. It would be in many ways an advantage to the county if the commissioners were accessible at all times, and no only on Tuesdays and Wednesdays; but of course with increased work should come increased pay I will tell you how the roads are managed in one place that I know—and they are good roads too. The whole county is mapped, and the roads divided to sections, each section comprising as much as one contractor can well manage. At a ated periods these sections are given out by contract; the lowest pidder gets the contract, if he is able to furnish an indoubtedly good bond for the proper performance

f the work. The contracts are awarded by a body of men having powers analogous to those of our County Commissioners. The roads are constantly salary that enables him to devote his whole atten- ducements to manufacturers to powered to hire men and have the work done under his own supervision, for which the contractor's bond is liable. In the meantime the members of Centennial Grange would do well to inform themselves—if they have not already done so—of what is being said and done e.sewhere in the matter of roadmaking. The San in its issue of October 16th enumerates some of the most readable publications on the subject, namely : the treatise on "Road Legislation for the American State" by Prof. Jenks, of Knox College, Illinois; an article in Harper's Magazine by Capt. Green on "Roads and Roadmaking;"
the pamphlet issued by the Lesgue of American Vheelers on the improvement of highways: the paper read by Mr. Edward Van Renth before the Grangers' meeting in the Twelfth District of this county on the 6th of June last; some late numbers of Scribner's and Lippincott's Magazines. For the benefit of any who may wish to know what is said on the other side of the Atlantic, I would add the names of two of the best English works on the same subject, viz: "A Tratise of Roads" by Sir Henry Parnell, and "The Maintenance of Macadmized Roads" by Thomas Codrington. MUST BE A BONA FIDE RESIDENT. In the Matter of the Petition of Frank L. Morling Against Charles H. Mann, Register of Volers, &c. In the Circuit Court for Baltimore County:

This is an appeal from the action of the Register of Voters of the 9th Election District of Baltimore County in striking the name of the petitioner from the list of qualified voters of the 8d Precinct of said Election District at the October sitting, 1889. It appears from the petition, the answer and evidence taken orally before the Court, that from many years prior to 1888 the petitioner was a resident and voter in Baltimore county; that on the 1st of June, 1888, and for some time immediately preceding that date, the petitioner and his wife, constituting his then family, were living with their son-in-law, who was a householder residing on Madison avenue, within the limits of the 3d Election District of Baltimore County, and the potitioner was a registered voter in the — Precinct of said 3d Election District; that on the said 1st day of June, 1888, that portion of Baltimore county in which the petitioner was residing became, by the extension of the city limits, a part of Baltimore city; that in consequence of such extension of the limits of Baltimore city so as to include the petitioner's place of residence, and not from any desire on his part to change his voting residence, the name of the petitioner wi atricken from the list of qualified voters of the said ——Precinct of the 8d Election District of Baltimore County; that although he has since continued reside with his son-in-law, within the limits of Be timore city as extended, he has never registered as a qualified voter, or, of his own will, acquired or exercised any of the rights of suffrage outside of Baltimore county; that he has always held and ex-pressed an intention to retain a voting residence in Baltimore county; that in pursuance of such inten-tion in the spring of 1889 he started the publication of a weekly newspaper at Towson, and for the pur-poses of such publication he furnished an office at Towson, where he has since employed one or more men, besides himself; and he also spoke to the proprietor of one of the hotels of Towson about securing rooms for himself and wife, but that he has where he expects to get rooms, returning in the evening to his son-in-law's house on Madison avenue, in Baltimore city extended; that upon this condition of facts and believing himself to be a citizen of Baltimore county, entitled to vote therein he applied to the Register of Voters of the 9th Election District of said county at the May sitting, 1889, and procured his name to be placed upon the list of the qualified voters of the 3d Precinct of said Election District; that subsequently, that is to say, at the October sitting, 1889, the said Register, upon in-formation that the petitioner was not a resident of said Election District, or of Baltimore county, struck his name from the list of qualified voters of said 3d Precinct; and from this action of the Register the petitioner has appealed. Of the honesty of the petitioner's belief in his right to vote in Baltimore county and to be registered in the said 3d Precinct, under the state of facts is presented to the Court and as above set forth, here can be no shadow of question, and surely no blame can fairly attach to the petitioner for desiring to perform his duties of citizenship by exercising his right of suffrage in accordance with the law. To ascertain one's legal rights through the legally constituted means cannot afford ground for legitimate The only question presented by this appeal for th determination of this Court is the right of the petitioner to be registered as a qualified voter in the 3d recinct of the 9th Election District of Baltimor County. Other questions are ultra vires. Our Constitution prescribes the general qualifica-tions of voters in this State in these words: "Every male citizen of the United States, of the age of 21 rears, or upwards, who has been a resident ( tate for one year and of the Legislative District o Baltimore city, or of the county in which he may offer to vote for six months next preceding the election, shall be entitled to vote in the ward or Elechereafter to be held in this State. The Legislature, in pursuance of express requirenents of the Constitution, has enacted various laws, ng the elective franchise as defined and guarantee a the Constitution, but for the purpose of protecting all from frauds upon the ballot, while securing to each his full right of suffrage. These laws pro vide amongst other things that all persons possess-ing "the requisite qualifications under the Constitu-tion of Maryland and the laws made in pursuance thereof shall be registered as 'qualified voters.'" In Beyard vs. Hoffman et al., 18 Md., 488, the Court ava: "In our State, where almost every public offi cer is chosen by the votes of the people, the right of suffrage cannot be too highly prized, or too carefully But surely no authority is required for a proposition so nearly self-evident. It is the plain duty of Courts in passing on our registration laws to con strue them liberally in favor of the right of suffrage, and to carry out the obvious purpose of their enactment. But such liberality must not be carried to the extent of destroying the proper safeguards which those laws were intended to secure; and certainly it must not ignore the limitations which the Constitution has itself expressly created. The one pre-requisite which our Constitution especially requires for the exercise of the right of suffrage is residence." The plain requirements of our Constitution, as well as of the laws made in pursuance thereof, is that each elector must vote at home.— This requirement is reasonable, and its obvious purpose is to prevent frands at elections. No Court could be justified in nullifying so plain a provision r construction.

It has been argued that no man's political resitrue in a qualified sense, but not absolutely. The right of the Legislature to change the political divisions of the State, in accordance with the Const ution, cannot be questioned. And this power is riven to the Legislature in the same Constitution which provides that all citizens of this State must vote where they reside. The two provisions are no nconsistent with each other, certainly, and neither are they, when taken together, inconsistent with any of our rights of citizenship. A domicile i necessary to acquire a political residence, and a change of domicile is necessary to change a politi cal residence. A political residence once acquired s not forfeited by a temporary change of domicile The petitioner in this case having, by his domicile acquired a political residence in the 3d Election Dis trict of Baltimore County, could have removed hi domicile to Baltimore city and kept it there indefi nitely, or so long as he did no act inconsistent with an intention to return to his original domicile without forfeiting his political residence. It is not unreasonable to suppose that a like construction would be put upon a removal of domicile where it was involuntary and occasioned by operation of law. But if the petitioner was entitled to retain hi olitical residence in Baltimore county after his place of residence was taken into Baltimore city by the City Extension Act, and if the Register of th 3d Election District was in error in striking his name from the list of qualified voters of said Elec tion District, then his remedy was by an appeal from that action of the Register of the 3d District, and that question cannot arise on an appeal from the Register of the 9th Election District. A distinction must be noted between retaining a political residence and changing one. The question is not now whether the petitioner did or did not forfelt his political residence by passage of the "City Extension Act." There is no contention that the petitioner's name was stricken from the list of qualified voters of the 3d Precinct of the 9th Election District by ceason of his not having resided in the county for six months. The sole contention is that he is not and never has had any residence in the 9th District The same question might have arisen if the City Extension Act had never been passed and the petiloner continuing to reside, as he has done, on Madion avenue, but in the 3d Election District, had desired to change his political residence to the 9th Election District. If the petitioner could not change his political residence to the 9th Election District while continuing to reside in the 3d District, it is a mere truism to say that he cannot make the change while residing in Baltimore city, whether such residence be permanent or temporary. Much stress is laid on the petitioner's "inten-Intention, when it accompanies an act, is often very material when the question is quo animo; but the law does not regard intentions, standing by themselves. No one can either lose a residence of gain one by a mere intention which is not consummated. If the voting place of each elector could be determined by a residence of intention merely, then a seductive field would at once be opened to "practi-cal politicians" to render all doubtful Precincts certain, one way or the other, by a judicious transfer o voters from their places of actual residence to places f intentional residence. In view of the very plain provisions of the law I am constrained to decide that the petitioner in this case has no residence in the 9th Election District of Baltimore County to entitle him to register and
