

Extract from letter from Mr. C. S. Hook dated July 17, 1926.

This is too long a letter on business, so I might as well add to it. About five years ago, I bought among the old Sheffield books at Newport, R.I., the copy of Maryland Laws which the enclosed clipping from a catalogue describes-the identical copy in fact- which contained the "unrecorded" page, and have since found another copy-this one in Baltimore-but the reversed title-page, used as a lining for the cover was too badly torn to be worth saving.
