to his bed. His friend are not idle though, by any means; they are sending out thousands of copies of his speech against the Mills tariff bill. The administration people are talking of going into his district, and preventing his nomination for Congress by the democrats. This they may be able to do, though I doubt it, but as to keeping the people of his district from sending Samuel J. Randall to Congress, I do not think any administration is strong enough forthat. If he lives he will be elected to the Fifty First Congress. If the regular democratic convention in his district refuses to nominate him, he will run as an independent candidate, and defeat the man it does nominate.
