

9th.

No member shall absent himself from the service of the House, unless he have leave, or be sick and unable to attend.

10th.

When a member is about to speak in debate, or deliver any matter to the House, he shall rise from his seat uncovered, and respectfully address himself to "Mr. Speaker:"—he shall confine himself to the question under debate; shall avoid personality; and shall use some other distinction than the proper name of any other member to whom he may refer in debate.

11th.

If two or more members shall rise to speak at the same time, the speaker shall determine which shall speak first, and no member shall speak more than twice to the same question, nor more than once until every member choosing to speak shall have spoken.

12th.

If any member shall, in any manner, transgress the rules of the House, the Speaker shall, or any member may call to order, in which case the member so called to order, shall immediately sit down unless permitted to explain; and the House shall, if appealed to, decide on the case, but without debate; if there be no appeal, the decision of the chair shall be submitted to; if the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed, if otherwise, he shall not be permitted to proceed without leave of the House, and if the case require it, he shall be liable to the censure of the House.

13th.

No member shall vote on any question in the result of which he is immediately and particularly interested, nor in any case where he was not present when the question was put; and upon a division and count of the House, on any question, no member without the bar shall be counted.

14th.

Every member who shall be in the House when the question is put, shall give his vote, unless the House, for special reasons shall excuse him; and the refusal of any member present to vote, on calling the yeas and nays, shall be noted on the journal at the request of any member.
