This statement cannot exhibit the saving to the institution, as from the convenience of having such a shop, shoes are often mended so soon as they need it; whereas, if they had to be sent elsewhere it would be deferred, notwithstanding the admonition of Dr. Franklin, that "a stitch in time saves nine," until the expense of repairing would be greatly increased, or the shoe be rendered useless. Our patients, both male and female, have uniformly been well supplied with shoes. The servants, numbering about thirty, get, under a rule of the institution, two pair each per annum; and the whole cost for the year of having supplied the wants in this respect of more than four hundred patients and thirty servants, has only been seven hundred and sixty-two dollars and fifty-two cents.

HAT SHOP.

The hats for patients who are supplied by the State, and for the servants, are made by one of the attendants, with such aid as his patients can afford him. Not less than two hundred and fifty
