

By the House of Delegates, Feb. 23, 1829.

Gentlemen of the Senate,

We send to you a resolution in favor of Randall Hoskins, alias Randolph Hoskins, of Washington county, State of Kentucky, and convinced that he is justly entitled to a pension, have made the necessary alteration of his christian name, as suggested by your honorable body. We flatter ourselves it will now meet with your approbation, and that you will feel no reluctance to pass the same.

By order

Gideon Pearce, Clk.

On motion of Mr. Forrest, the Senate then re-considered the resolution in favor of Randall Hoskins, alias Randolph Hoskins, mentioned in the above message, and the same was again referred to the committee on Pensions and Revolutionary claims.

And also delivered the following message, which was read.

By the House of Delegates, Feb. 23, 1829.

Gentlemen of the Senate

The protraction of the Legislative business, and the consequent augmentation of public expenditure, which have arisen from the delay in printing the Journals, Bills and other documents; induce us to require of the joint committee heretofore appointed to contract for the printing of the General Assembly, to enquire into the expediency of adopting some expeditious and economical plan of providing for the necessary printing of this State, in which we invite the concurrence of your honorable body.

By order

Gideon Pearce, Clk.

On motion of Mr Heath, the following message was read assented to and sent to the House of Delegates.

By the Senate, February 23, 1829.

Gentlemen of the House of Delegates

The Senate concur in the proposition contained in the message of your honorable body, to instruct the joint committee to enquire into the expediency of adopting some expeditious and economical plan of providing for the necessary printing of the State.

By order

Louis Gassaway, Clk.

On motion of Mr. Kennedy, the President named Mr. Heath,
