

lutions in accord with those of Massachusetts in relation to the judicial power of the courts of the United States.

From the Executive of Delaware, a report and resolutions dissenting from the respective resolutions of the general assembly of Louisiana and Missouri, proposing amendments to the Constitution of the United States, in relation to the election of President and Vice-President; and also a report and resolutions, in relation to the tariff and internal improvements, in concurrence with the Legislature of Pennsylvania, "that the tariff of 1828, accords with the true spirit of the Constitution of the United States, and that it maintains the true principles of protection to the industry of the country against foreign policy and legislation," and in concurrence with the General Assembly of the States of Louisiana and Vermont, in which they have declared "the law of 1828, upon the tariff to be expedient, and harmless to the Southern states," and declaring the opinion of the general assembly, "that the construction of works of internal improvement is not only within the constitutional powers of the Congress of the United States, but that the exercise of such power, is highly expedient;" also, a report and resolutions in relation to such surviving officers and soldiers of the revolutionary army, as are not entitled to pensions under any existing law; expressing the opinion "that liberal and ample compensation should be awarded them;" also, a report and resolutions, relative to the public lands of the United States, and in favor of "a distribution of the proceeds of their sale, after the entire extinguishment of the public debt, amongst the several states, for the promotion of education;" and also, a report and resolutions dissenting from resolutions of the State of Alabama, approbatory of the conduct of Andrew Jackson, as President of the United States, and recommending his re-election, and expressing unqualified disapprobation of the conduct of the president in refusing his signature to bills for the promotion of internal improvement, and declaring the same a wanton exercise of power, regardless of the interests of the people, and recommending Henry Clay to the people of the United States for their next president.

From the Executive of Virginia, a report and resolutions in answer to those passed by the last general assembly of this state, relative to opening a safe and direct navigation through the sounds which run parrallel with the sea coast, by the construction of such canals as may be requisite for the purpose, between the Chesapeake bay, at or near Cape Charles and Lewis town creek, on the bay of Delaware, and authorising the executive of said state, to appoint a commissioner, or direct their engineer, to meet any commissioners or engineers which may be appointed by the