

rous distemper, he shall not be discharged, unless at his own request, until he can be safely discharged.

XXXV. And be it enacted, That no person whatever, except the keeper, his deputies, servants or assistants, the said inspectors, officers and ministers of justice, counsellors or attorneys at law employed by a prisoner, ministers of the gospel, or persons producing a written licence, signed by two of the said inspectors, shall be permitted to enter within the walls where such offenders shall be confined, and that the doors of all the lodging rooms and cells in the said gaol shall be locked, and all lights therein extinguished, at the hour of nine, and one or more watchmen shall patrol the said gaol at least twice in every hour from that time until the return of the time of labour in the morning of the next day.

XXXVI. And be it enacted, That the walls of the cells and apartments in the said gaol shall be white-washed with lime and water at least twice in every year, and the floors of the said cells and apartments shall be washed once every week, or oftener, if the said inspectors shall so direct, by one or more of the said prisoners in rotation, who, at the discretion of the said keeper, shall have an extra allowance of diet for so doing; and the said prisoners shall be allowed to walk and air themselves for such stated time as their health may require, and the said keeper shall permit, and if proper employment can be found, such prisoners may also be permitted, with the approbation of two of the said inspectors, to work in the yard, provided such airing and working in the yard be in the presence, or within the view, of the said keeper, or his deputies or assistants.

XXXVII. And be it enacted, That one or more of the apartments in the second story of the said gaol shall be fitted up as an infirmary, and in case any such offender being sick, shall, upon examination of the attending physician, be found to require it, he or she shall be removed to the infirmary, and his or her name shall be entered in a book to be kept for that purpose, and when the said physician shall report to the said keeper that such offender is in a proper condition to quit the infirmary, and return to his or her employment, such report shall be entered by the said keeper in a book to be kept for that purpose, and the said keeper shall order him or her back to his or her former labour, so far as the same shall be consistent with his or her state of health; and the said inspectors shall from time to time appoint a physician to attend the said gaol.

XXXVIII. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the mayor and city council of the city of Baltimore, on the first Monday in _____ next, to appoint twelve inspectors of the gaol and penitentiary-house aforesaid, six of whom shall be in office until the first Monday in _____ next, and six until the first Monday in _____ following, and so from time to time six inspectors shall be appointed,
