Never Been to a Theatre.

Richard Vaux, of Philadelphia, exmember of Congress, has never been to a theatre in his life to see a theatrical performance. An interesting incident is given of his boyhood days, over threescore years ago. His father, a highly respected and prominent Friend, resided on Aich street and believed it was best for his children to be trained within the rules of the good old Quaker habits. At that period Ned Forrest was the brilliant young American tragedian and had burned last Saturday. captivated all the boys of Philadelphia in his character of the Roman gladiator and big Indian Metamora. Young Vaux naturally desired to see the great actor play, but shrank from going without his father's consent, so one day he ventured to ask his father for a half-dollar to get a ticket. The old gentlemen kindly replied in Quaker accent : "Richard, I don't begrudge the money but thee knows I don't approve of playhouses and wish thee to promise me not to go to a theatre without my permis-

The promise was given and his father died suddenly soon after without giving the permission. Richard Vaux has conscientiously refrained from going to the theatig ever since.—Philadelphia Times.

W. J. ROBINSON, Clerk.

New Year's Greeting to The Sunday School Workers of Maryland.

MY DEAR FELLOW WORKERS: It has pleased our Divine Father to spare our lives to see the dawn of another year. This of itself is a great Mr. R. A. Bowie, for a number of years | blessing for which we should feel devoutly thankful. It is a benediction to be permitted to live and labor in His cause at this time, when the years of the century are waning, and this very fact imposes upon us a special responsibility.

It is a call to such a consecration of our powers, such diligence in the performance of duty, such a spirt of sacrifice, such faith in God such heroic grappling with the problems and issues that Valley Register, at Middletown, has been | confront us, that when the bells of earth ring in the twentieth century their melody may reverberate through heaven, thrilling every angel with the joyous news that the church had lifted higher than ever before the cross of the Redeemer and that millions were clustering

Only six years before the close of the present century! yet wonderful things can be accomplished for the glory of God and the good of humanity. In that brief period Maryland can be won for Christ and she can begin the history of another century redeemed from every organized evil, however firmly entrenched; but this must be wrought by the might of God through a quickened church.

It seems to me that God is seeking to awaken and arouse his people to action. The very air is heavy with the breathings of the Spirit. The providences of God, though now so much deplored, we will find to have been merciful agencies to impel us to lift our eyes from the dust, and to crumble the walls which selfishness and pride have built between the rich and the poor. The oneness of the human race, the brotherhood of man and the great loving fatherhood of God, are emphasized by pulpit and press, and recognized, as never before, by all as relations essential to the happiness and elevation of mankind. The churches are getting closer together in the matter of faith, and in the spirit of fellowship is at high temperature caused by the and cooperation; the scriptures are read and studied more generally than ever by the masses, and there is almost univirsal recognition of the fact that all political, social and business problems must be solved on the basis of gospel truth. These facts, together with the multiplication of religious agencies portend great opportunities.

The Maryland Sunday-school Union feels the thrill of a new responsibility, and, believing we have entered upon the fulfillment of the prophecy, "And a little child shall lead them," we are determined to bend every effort for the advancement of the religious education and training of the children of our state. We are resolved that this shall be an exceptional year in our work. Going forth in His name we do not believe He will disappoint us in the bestowai of grace and power, or in the acquisition of the means required for the accomplishment of our plans. We begin the year with additional working force, and hope to extend our operations into all parts of city and state.

I am greatly encouraged by the work of 1894, which has been far-reaching in its effects. I am also gratified at the ina thirty-five foot well at Rockville.

LORD'S GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Week of Jan. 7, "Sowing the Wind-First time in Baltimore city of Sydney Grundy's great play. One of the most brilliant dramatic plays of the season, "Sowing the Wind," will be seen at Ford's Grand Opera House during the week of Jan. 7th.

This drama has made a deep impression every where it has been produced. Not only for the great problem it discusses but because it is a beautiful example of the play-wright's art, fuil of heart touches and true to nature in every line and situation. The strongest sentiment that grows out of such a character as Rosamond, "the singing girl," issympathy—that touch of nature which "makes the whole world kin"—and it is the first element in the success of "Sowing the Wind," It renders it a work for the mind as well as for mere sentiment. Mr J. H. Gilmour has made many new admirers in this city by his artistic rendition of the character of Brabazon. Miss Mary Hampton has given a grace, sweetness and virility to the role of the persecuted Rosamond which place her in the front rank of our young emotional actresses. In fact, the company, as a whole, is one of the very best and thoroughly in keeping with the merits of Grundy's great play.

HARRIS' ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

"The Princess Bonnie," which is to be presented in Baltimore city, at Harris' Academy, week of January 7th, by Willard Spenser's Comic Opera Company, the original organization—the company which made the opera famous—has just concluded what is possibly he most remarkable run known in Theatrical history. For lifteen weeks the opera was presented to overflowing houses at the Chestnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, and its last week, which concluded on the seventh day of July was the largest in point of receipts—the lout night (July 3rd) being played to gross receipts $2,112.60. On October 1st the opera began a four weeks' returnengagement at the Broad Street Theatre, Philadelphia, Instead of playing to fair business, which is customary with return engagements, the receipts were the largest ever known at regu'ar prices in Nixon and Zimmerman's aristocratic theatre. So grent was the success that the management of the theatre and the company endeavored to buy out the Bostonians, whose three weeks immediately follow "Princess Bonnie," Although the management of the Bostonians were offered $1,000 per week for their time they refused to accept it, and that is why "Princess Bonnie" goes on the road and our theatre-goers are given an opportunity of witnessing the performance. The company which is to present the opera in this city includes Frank Daniels and Eleanore Mayo "The Princess Bonnie," which is to be prewhich is to present the opera in this city includes Frank Daniels and Eleanore Mayo and is precisely the same as in Philadelphia.
