For the Baltimore Clipper.
TO M...
All nature wears a smile of joy,
All things are bright and fair, Yet I am sad and the white and sigh, Because they are not near.
The feathered songsters warbling notes Swell out upon the air, Could I but be as light as they,
As free from every care.
Could I but range these hills, and gaze With joy upon the scene, And listen to the streamlet flow Along you vale so green.
Could I but join you mirthful throng,
And mingle with your joy,
And could I feel that perfect peace That never knows alloy.
But not my M... dwells in climes Beyond the swelling sea, Go hear my sighs along to hear, Ye gentle evening breeze.
Oh! haste thee here, my love, to dwell Beneath thy native skies, For me all nature then shall bloom,
And joys around me rise.

PRAIRIE SKETCHES.
A DUEL WITHOUT SECONDS. The two opposents stood, with pistols cocked and pointed, looking, with firm and unwavering glance, into each other's eyes. There was not another thing of life, save the summer insects, to be seen around the far prospect. The smoking carcasses of a newly slaughtered buffalo cow lay between the young men, and the last breath had scarcely escaped from the poor brute at the moment of which we are speaking.
It was noon day. Some two hours before, the scene had been enlivened by the passing of an extensive trading company, and the duellists were two young men who had remained behind in pursue of their sport. They were close friends, had known each other from boyhood, and through long years of intimacy had reciprocated a warm attachment and esteem. They stood now, with deadly determination flashing in their eyes, each waiting for the other to speak the fatal word of destruction. Not a spectator was there to mark the indomitable bearing of the friends so stately-ly and strangely turned against each other.
There was a pause, in which the very insects and the motionless atmosphere seemed to join, and the dark, glaring orb of the dead cow stood open, as if its wrathful spirit was still lingering there to witness the bloody spectacle about to be enacted.
Let us return now and learn how trivial a cause brought about this serious disposition of affairs.— The two young friends, in full chase of the cow, had fired at the same instant, one with a large horse pistol, the other with a shot gun charged with rifle ball. Each was proud of his aim, and in the excitement of the moment each claimed the honor of having given the mortal wound.— One ball was planted in the liver, as was proved by the beast spouting blood before death. The other was dug from the fleshy shoulder, several inches above the hunter's well known mark and in a part where no mortal injury can possibly be given to a buffalo.
"It is your ball; own it," said the youngest of the two friends, as he stripped the skin from the yet breathing beast, and tore out the ball that lay flattened against the bone.
"It is a lie, sir," said the other, shame for the word he had spoken instantly heightening his irritation, while stubborn pride arose to forbid retraction.
They were youths of fiery mood. Neither to preserve the last ebullient drop of life, could stoop to suffer a degradation. It was a too chi-valrous and subtle temperament that made them wanderers at this time in the wild regions of the west. The young hunter, still upon his knees by the bleeding buffalo, lifted the ball above his head, and swore to plant it in the heart of his companion unless the reproachful word was withdrawn.
"Load then," said the other, coolly, as he re-dressed his knife in the buffalo's throat, preparatory to extracting the tongue.
The young man shot off the contents of a pistol into the air, and then proceeded to reload, charging his weapon with the devoted bullet.
"Do you take back the word?" said the insulted youth.
"No," was the cool response.
"Then get up and fight, and don't compel me to murder you."
"It must be murder if either you or I should die here," said the elder of the companions;— "for no witness is present to testify for the survivor."
"Coward!" muttered the indignant youth between his teeth. The epithet was muttered, but not with design to be unheard.
"Then I will kill you dead upon the spot, since you desire it," said the other, rising to his feet, and deliberately drawing a pistol from his belt.
Thus they stood at the opening of this description. After the pause we have mentioned, the elder companion spoke, with a sarcastic smile on his countenance, and said, "take the word, and tell me when to shoot, youngster."
"Take better aim than you did at the buffalo," replied the youth, "or your shooting will do me no harm."
"Come and meet me breast to breast," said the other, "and that will improve my aim." The high mettled young men advanced to meet each other, and, each placing his right foot upon the slain brute, the muzzles of their weapons were placed within thirty inches of the murderous aim taken.
"Quite as well that the distance should be short," said the young man, as I do not wish to live and be accused of your murder."
"Give me your hand and fire," said the elder, "kill me dead, or my ghost shall haunt you—fire!"
The elder pointed his pistol in the air and fired, while the younger, after a pause, dashed his instrument upon the earth and exclaimed, "you called me a liar, Jack!"

"Then why do you not shoot me?"
"Why!" replied the impetuous youth, "because here in the lone desert I see your mother's imporing hands uplifted, and my pistol seems pointed at her heart instead of yours. Instead of your blood I see her tears flowing, and I stand here a dishonored man, powerless of revenge." Moisture dimmed the eye of the elder hunter, and a plaintive alteration was in his voice when he said, "well, Tom, you called me a coward."
"Then I was a liar, Jack, and not till then—You have called me a liar, and a retraction now can do no good, for a liar you have made me."
"Never, Tom, never," was now the exclaima-tion of the other companion. "No, Tom, I did you wrong, and I ask your pardon. By the long years of our friendship, whether it was your ball or mine that killed the old cow, I was rash and wrong in what I said. Forget it, forget it, and let us just cut out the cow's tongue and be off after the wagons, for the sun will drop down in the west before we reach our companions." A few more moments saw the reconciled friends riding forward together, exchanging explanations as warm as their quarrel was brief and rash, and the buffalo's tongue furnished them with a supper over which the sudden difference was as speedily forgotten. Neither was ever satisfied, however, as to which killed the buffalo.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.
ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 16, 1841.
HOUSE OF DELEGATES. Mr. Legrand reported a bill to incorporate the Newington Beneficial Society of Baltimore. Passed.
The bill to incorporate the Powhatan Steam Boat Company was taken up, amended and passed.
Mr. Bowie, Chairman of Committee on Ways and Means, reported a bill entitled an act "for the general valuation and assessment of property in this State and to provide a tax to pay the debts of the State," which was read and ordered to be printed. The bill was made the order for the 23rd inst.
Mr. E. A. Lynch, Chairman of Committee on Internal Improvement, delivered a report, which is very voluminous, and recommends a further appropriation to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.
Six hundred and sixty-six copies were ordered to be printed.
On motion of Mr. Legrand, it was voted on the journal that he, a member of the committee on Internal Improvement, dissented from the aforegoing report.
Mr. Foreman offered an order, that it be noted on the journal that he, as a member of the same committee, dissented from the report so far as an appropriation to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal is recommended.
Mr. Graves submitted a preamble and resolutions, the purport of which is to request our Senators and Representatives in Congress to introduce immediately a bill, and to press its passage, making provision for the building of at least two steam batteries for the special protection of the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries. Also that the Governor be requested to forward a copy of the resolutions to our Senators and Representatives. Ordered to lie on the table.
The House then proceeded to consider the first order of the day, being a bill to alter and amend the Constitution and form of Government so far as to provide for the election of County Clerks and Registers of Wills immediately by the people.
The bill was rejected by a vote of 23 yeas to 33 nays. The House then proceeded to the second order, being the bill from the Senate supplementary to an act respecting the Equity Jurisdiction of County Courts. The bill was laid on the table and ordered to be printed as amended by the Committee on Grievances.
The third order was the bill reported by Mr.
Frazier to authorize the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore to license wood hucksters in said city. On motion of Mr. Rider, it was referred to the Committee on Inspections.
The bill reported by Mr. Legrand to provide for the destruction of notes of Insolvent Banks in certain cases was passed.
Mr. Gallagher obtained leave to bring in a bill to incorporate the Blacksmiths', Engineers' and Machinists' Society of Baltimore. Referred to a select committee.
SENATE. The supplement to the act in reference to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal was passed.
Mr. Howard, of Baltimore, presented the petition of sundry citizens of Baltimore in opposition to the increase of tolls on the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road. Laid on the table.

(Reported for the Clipper.)
CITY COURT—FEBRUARY TERM.
Wednesday, Feb. 17. John Robinson, negro, was placed upon his trial, charged with having aided and abetted James Duckett, a negro slave, the property of Mrs. Hanna, to escape from his lawful owner, against the act of 1837, chap. 15.
Mr. Zell, on the part of the state, stated he was at the rail road depot on Sunday morning, the 29th of November last. Saw Mr. Rochester, the agent at the ticket office, give Robinson a ticket—he (Mr. Zell) took his stand on the last car, which is appropriated for colored persons—the cars started near the corner of Gay and Pratt streets—saw Robinson and Duckett get on the street—Duckett got on. Suspecting that all was not right, waited until Duckett arrived at Canton, when he asked him for his free papers, on which he produced the ticket for his pass—told him that it would not do—arrested him and brought him to his office—he was afterwards taken to Mr.
Slatter's by direction of Mrs. Hanna's son. Robinson was not arrested until the Friday following, when he was brought to the office by Mr.
Worthington, constable. Asked him for his papers, when Robinson referred him to a colored woman named Hynson in Old Town—sent Mr.
Worthington for them—the colored woman came with Mr. Worthington and produced the papers of Robinson.
Cross-examined. Robinson did not say that he got his papers from Capt. Clark on Tuesday after he purchased the ticket. Robinson had Docket by the arm when he was urging him.
Mr. Rochester, on the part of the state, the agent in the ticket office of the rail road company, stated, that on Sunday morning, the 29th of November, Robinson came to the office to obtain a ticket for Philadelphia; he was very impudent—asked him for his free papers—he produced them, and gave what is called a three-quarter ticket for Sunday—it was about 15 minutes before 9 o'clock, A. M.—the ticket which he gave Robinson has never been returned to the office—the ticket is good for six months—has seen Robinson frequently at the office purchasing tickets.
Mr. Hanna stated that James Duckett was the slave of his mother for life.
James Duckett, negro, on the part of the defence, (this is the slave,) stated that he never saw the prisoner at the bar until he saw him at the office of Mr. Zell. Robinson is not the man who gave him the ticket—met the man on the Saturday before, to whom he gave $3 to purchase a ticket for him—met the man the next day, Sunday morning, at the corner of South and Pratt streets, when he gave him the ticket—he never saw the man until the day previous to his getting the ticket from him. The case was argued before the jury by G. R. Richardson, Esq. on part of the state, and T. Y. Walsh, Esq. on part of the prisoner. The jury returned a verdict of guilty.
Mr. Walsh, the counsel for the prisoner, filed a motion for an arrest of judgment, which will be argued hereafter.
James Robinson was charged with an assault upon Rosannah Riley. He was declared not guilty.
Daniel Tyson was charged with two assaults upon Mr. Myrheffer. He was declared guilty.
Fined $10 and costs in each case.
James Blanchard was placed upon trial, charged with keeping a disorderly house, which was proved to be frequented by boys between the ages of 12 and 18 years. His house is situated in Marsh Market Space. He was declared guilty.
Fined $25 and costs.
Mary Henderson, negress, was placed upon her trial, charged with stealing 45 silver half dollars, the property of a negro man named Proctor. It appeared that Proctor had saved some 95 or $100, and placed them in a bed between the sacking bottom and the feather bed—during his absence he left the house in the care of his children—while absent, the prisoner came to the house, and was seen at the bed by one of his children, with her hands underneath it—she was afterwards seen with a large amount of money in her possession—she had always heretofore been very poor. The jury returned a verdict of guilty.
Mr. Walsh, the prisoner's counsel, filed a motion for a new trial.
The Court then adjourned till to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

THE MINISTER'S ADVICE TO MR. SLICK ON CHOOSEING A WIFE. "Don't marry too poor a gall, for they are apt to think there is no end to their husband's purse; nor too rich a gall, for they are apt to remind you of it unpleasant sometimes; nor too giddy a gall, for they neglect their families; nor too demure a one, for they are most apt to give you the dodge, race off and leave you; nor one of a different sect, for it breeds discords; nor a weak-minded one, for children take all their talents from their mothers; nor a—O Lord! says I, minister, how you skew a body!
Where under the sun will you find a nousech like what you describe? There ain't actily no such critters among women. I'll tell you, my son, said he, for I'd like afore I die to see you well mated; I would indeed! I'll tell you, tho' you talk to me sometimes as if I didn't know nothin of women. You think nobody can't know 'em but them as romp all their days with them as you do; but them, let me tell you, know the least, for they are only acquainted with the least deserving. I'll gin a gage to know 'em by that is almost invariable, universal, infallible. The character and conduct of the mother is a sure and certain guarantee for that of the darter."

IMPORTANT INVENTION. Mr. Hullmandell, who has already done much to improve lithography, has invented a new mode of producing pictorial effects on lithographic stone, by tints, washed with a brush which yield impressions so perfectly resembling the original sketch that the difference is not discernible.
INCENDIARIES. Several attempts have been lately made to fire buildings in Richmond, which have fortunately all been frustrated. The police are on the look out for the miscreants.
A BEAUTIFUL SPOT. A raffle in passing one of the principal streets in Richmond on Friday last got into a mud hole and was completely swamped.
A beautiful picture.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES MAIL LINE, DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
THE ONLY LINE CARRYING THE GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule: Leave Philadelphia 8 A. M. reach Baltimore 2 P. M.
" Baltimore 4 P. M. " Washington 6 P. M.
" Washington 5 A. M. " Fredk'sburg 12 M.
" Fredk'sburg 12 M. " Richmond 3 P. M.
" Richmond 3 P. M. " Petersburg 7 P. M.
" Petersburg 7 P. M. " Weldon 1 A. M.
" Weldon 1 A. M. " Wilmington 1 P. M.
" Wilmington 1 P. M. " Charleston at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Railroad Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary emergency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that FOGS! ROGS! WEATHER!! and STORMS!!! most often occasion delay in a route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the Traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon; and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.
This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)
This is the only Daily Line to Richmond and Petersburg.
Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office, d12-4f PRATT STREET, Baltimore.

THE PROPRIETORS OF THE GAY-ST.
CHAIR WARE ROOMS, would inform their friends and the public generally, that they have now on hand, a very splendid assortment of Parlour and other CHAIRS, comprising Mahogany, Mahogany, Walnut, and a variety of inla-in wood colours. They would request persons, disposed to purchase, to give them a call, as their assortment is not surpassed if equalled by any establishment in the city.
They would also inform Shipping Merchants that they have on hand a large assortment of Cane and Blatt-back KNOCK DOWN, suitable for the West Indies or South American market, among which is a large proportion of very rich colored wares—all of which they are willing to sell on the most accommodating terms. fe1-2tf A. & J. P. MATHIAS.

LIVER COMPLAINT. This disease is discovered by a fixed obduracy of the right side under the short ribs, attended with heat, nausea about the pit of the stomach;—there is in the right side also a distension—the patient loses his appetite and becomes sick and troubled with vomiting. The tongue becomes rough and black, countenance changes to a pale or citron color, or yellow, like those affected with jaundice—difficulty of breathing, disturbed rest, attended with a dry cough, difficulty of laying on the left side; the body becomes weak, and finally the disease terminates into another of a more serious nature, which in all probability is far beyond the power of human skill. Dr. Harlic's Compound Tonic Strengthening and German Aperient Pills, if taken at the commencement of this disease, will effect it, and in continuing the use of the Medicine a few weeks, a perfect CURE will be performed. Thousands can testify to the fact.

THESE subscribers respectfully inform their friends and the public, that they have on hand, and intend keeping a constant supply of superior Alum and Bottom LIME, (burned in a coal kiln, so highly recommended by our State Geologist, Professor DeCatre,) and that they are prepared to sell the same at the kiln at 33-1/2 cents for cash, for first quality. As our object is to furnish a first rate article at the lowest possible price, we respectfully solicit a share of public patronage.
We have also on hand, about 5,000 bushels Oyster Shell and Air Stacked ALUM LIME, which we will sell on favorable terms, for farming purposes.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Bly and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my course and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.
