LETTER PROM WASHINGTON. [Correspondence of the Baltimore Clippet.] BETE : WASSISSTOR, April 26, 1865.

OF SPACE.

To all who are arxious or desirous to know to of what staff President Johnson is composed, It will -e interesting and instructive to recer That keep the word of promise to ear ear to "three times that tried men's souls"-cal the eve of this wicked and gigantic Rebellion I have stready alluded to his epening speeches in the Benate in Droember, 1360, when he broke away from old party ties and associa. tions, and trampled under feet the dectrines of pecesion, and denounced the penalties of treaton against these who would undertake to estry them out in practice. But it was during the last days of that troubled and exelting semine, - and especially on the second Cay of March, 1861-hat his remarkable powers of debate, his ladependent spirit-his fertility of resources -bis courage and energyas well as his therough knowledge of constitutional questions, shone most conspicuously. the since that memorable Second of March, A. Gerrett, asking permission to extend a counts of the contents of the letter alla. Brig Mississippi.
