

READ HOUSE

AL-III-C-029

Corner of Williams and Messick Roads
ca. 1850

The Read House was constructed in approximately 1850 for Nelson C. Read of Cumberland. Read had originally purchased the land, on which he eventually built two houses in 1845. The house is brick and constructed in a "T" shaped form. Of special interest are the Gothic panels on the doors indicating a growing interest in the Gothic Revival.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Reed Brick House is located on the corner of Williams and Messick Road southeast of Cumberland, Allegany County.

The Reed House is a "T" shaped structure. The main block is two stories tall and three bays wide. A rear wing also two stories tall, abuts the main block on the southwest side. The entire building is constructed of brick laid in American Common Bond and supported by a low stone foundation. The roof is gabled, includes a soffit, and is covered with replaced asphalt shingles. Windows in the structure are double hung, pegged, wooden sashes with a combination of two over two and four over four lights. All windows are topped by flat structural arches. Single bay entrance porch with a pedimented gabled roof supported by Doric columns covers the main entrance. The entrance itself is a verticle paneled door with original hardware. A rear second story porch has been enclosed and covered with asphalt shingles, and a second shed roofed porch was added in the present century. Small circular ventilators are located in the gable ends. The house has two original brick chimneys also located in the gable ends of the house.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Read House was constructed in approximately 1845 for Nelson C. Read of Cumberland. Read had purchased the land on which the house sits for $300.00 from William L. Lamar. The house is typical of a rural brick dwelling built prior to the Civil War. A similar house is located nearby which Read had built for his son. Both houses have the spare lines of rural brick architecture common in the county prior to the Civil War. Of special interest are the main doors on both houses which have pointed Gothic panels indicating the growing interest in the Gothic Revival.
