Stephens' Stonehouse
Mount Savage
Private

1852-1857

The Stephens' Stonehouse is located on Upper Bank Street in Mount Savage. Moses Stephens built this house sometime between 1852 and 1857. In a deed dated 1857, which transfers the property to James B. Thomas, it is stated that on the property "there is one stone dwelling house." Unlike the other George's Creek communities where stone was rarely used as building material, sandstone was often used in Mount Savage for homes. The building originally consisted of a rectangular one and one-half story, three bays wide structure. An addition on the southeast made it an "L" shaped building.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This stone house is located on Upper Bank Street in Mount Savage.

The building originally consisted of a rectangular one and one-half story, three bay wide structure. A gable roofed stone addition on the southeast makes the building an "L" shaped structure. Wall construction is of sandstone rubble with rough quoins on the corners. The walls are 27 inches thick. The gable roof is covered with tar paper. The original building had two interior end brick chimneys. One has been removed. An inside end chimney is on the addition.

The main entrance is located in the center of the northwestern facade. Windows of the first floor are pegged six over six light sashes. Half-story windows are two over two light sashes and six light casements. A hip roofed porch is in the corner of the "L" shaped building. A porch on the northwest has been removed.

The main section is divided into two rooms. A boxed stair runs along the rear wall. The owner reports that no original interior woodwork remains. (Interior inspection was not permitted 10/82).

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Stephens' Stone house is located on Upper Bank Street in Mount Savage. Mount Savage was settled in the late 18th century by the Archibald Arnold Family.<sup>1</sup> The area grew slowly until the late 1830's. In 1839 the Mount Savage Iron Company was founded.<sup>2</sup> The following years saw three subsidiary businesses quickly developed in the area: the railroad, coal mining, and the manufacturing of bricks.<sup>3</sup> These four businesses caused a large amount of growth in Mount Savage in the years after 1839.

Moses Stephens built this house sometime between 1852 and 1857. In a deed dated 1857, which transfers the property to James B. Thomas, it is stated that on the property "there is one stone dwelling house."<sup>4</sup> Unlike the other George's Creek communities where stone was rarely used as building material, sandstone was often used in Mount Savage for homes. "By 1855 Mount Savage had several hundred houses for the operatives (of the ironworks), built principally of stone..."<sup>5</sup>

The building originally consisted of a rectangular one and one-half story, three bays wide structure. An addition on the southeast made it an "L" shaped building. Wall construction is of sandstone rubble with rough quoins on the corners. The building rests on a stone foundation with round log sills.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This stone house is located on Upper Bank Street in Mount Savage.

The building originally consisted of a rectangular one and one-half story, three bays wide structure. A gable roofed stone addition on the southeast makes the building an "L" shaped structure. Wall construction is of sandstone rubble with rough quains on the corners, the walls are 27 inches thick. The building rests on a stone foundation with round log sills and no apparent water table. The gable flank roof is covered with tar paper. The original building had two flush end brick chimneys, one has been removed. An inside end chimney is on the addition.

The main entrance, in the center of the northwestern facade, has been replaced. Windows of the first floor are pegged six over six light sashes. One and one-half story windows are two over two light sashes and six light casements. A hip roofed porch is in the corner of the "L" shaped building. A porch on the northwest has been removed.
