

211 COURTLAND AVE.

In spite of rapid growth and change in central Towson, Courtland Ave. remains basically unchanged as an early 20th century streetscape. This frame structure, one of three in a row based on a longitudinal plan, has had some commercial alterations but still remains an important element in maintaining the residential scale of the neighborhood.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

There are three longitudinally planned houses in a row on Courtland Avenue, each characterized by being a two story frame structure with a finished attic resting on a high foundation. The gable-end roof has deeply corniced eaves with block brackets. This building is two bays wide, four bays deep and is covered with asbestos shingles. The fenestration is a regular 1/1 sash.

The street facade faces West and features a single story porch. This porch is characterized by classical details which include a shed roof simulating a half pediment on its end, and supporting fluted doric columns.

An entrance door occupies the north bay of the first level. A pair of 6/6 sash windows vent the gable end.

The fenestration of the south facade is regular, however, there are only three evenly spaced windows on the first level while a window occupies each bay of the second level. A centrally located corbeled brick chimney exits the roof south of the ridge.

The fenestration of the north facade differs from the south in that the westernmost bays are windowless with the exception of a single light casement window in the east bay lighting a staircase within.

Upon entering the house one finds a main parlor to the south and a staircase along the north wall. This stair has closed string steps with a minimum of decoration, and square newel post and balusters.

The main parlor leads to the dining area which leads to the third division occupied by a kitchen to the south and a bathroom to the north.

The moldings are plain, rectangular in shape with square corner blocks. The solid doors have five lateral panels and glass knobs with oval metal plates and embossed beads.

The upstairs is defined by the side hall plan, containing three bedrooms and a bathroom. The hallway has a curvilinear wall to accommodate a banister. There is a closet at the west end of the hall.

Details include corner guards and hot water radiators.

The attic has a false knee wall and trapezoidal ceiling. There are two rooms of equal size lighted by the windows in the gable ends.

The 1911 Tax Assessment Records for Baltimore County record Marion H. Merryman as owning new in 1915 three houses on Courtland Avenue on lots on the southwest corner of Washington Avenue, 35' x 112'. The 1915 Bromley Atlas shows only three houses on Courtland Avenue at this time, one of which occupies the same lot as this house. Therefore, this house was probably built in 1915.
