Wilson-Peverley House , "Ford Farm"
Near Warwick
Private

C. 1850

The Wilson-Peverley House is another one of five Maryland farms William Wilson owned in 1877. Wilson purchased the property in 1840 and probably built the house in the following decade. This 2½ story five bay center hall common bond brick house is very similar to two other brick houses that stand in line with this structure but are in adjacent Delaware. The house nearest the Maryland/Delaware line is dated 1854 and signed W. Wilson. Although each structure is very substantial and undoubtedly suitable for Wilson himself they were built and intended for tenants.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Wilson-Peverly House c. 1850 is a 2½ story five bay single pile center hall common bond brick structure on Edgar Price Road and just west of the Delaware-Maryland Line. The house faces south with the main gable running east/west.

The structure rests on a below ground fieldstone foundation and is laid in seven course common bond. The medium sloped roof is covered with seamed tin. A two story two bay by one room kitchen wing extends to the north and was constructed at the same time as the main block. The kitchen wing has a low pitched tin roof.

The south facade is typically symmetrical with a central entrance with flanking sidelights and overhead light transom. The lights are framed by simple pilasters and a slight cornice molding. A marble sill is found underfoot, and the heavily molded four panel door remains. The typical 6/6 sash have extended lintels with two panel shutters on the first floor and louvered on the second. Two ground level windows light the basement. A four course brick cornice stretches above the second floor windows. The roof is pierced by two 6/6 sash dormers with fluted pilasters and simple periments.

The west gable end is a plain brick wall with two four pane attic lights and a plain bargeboard. The chimney stack with two course cap rises between.

The east end has an expected 6/6 sash on each floor and two attic lights that flank the interior end stack. The east side of the kitchen wing is a natural continuation of the gable end wall with two 6/6 sash on each floor and a four course brick cornice. The north end of the ell as a plain brick wall with a plain bargeboard and interior end stack.

The west side has two entrances with four panel doors and the southern door has a light transom. The second floor sash are similar as all the others. A hip roofed porch protects the first floor.

The interior is typical third quarter 19th century with the heavily turned newel post and flat oval handrail supported by turned balusters. The stringer is fairly plain and the triangular area below is plastered. Common molding is found on baseboard and four panel doors. The doors are framed by a fairly plain surround with a rectangular strip backband with a slight crosett at the top. The sides flare as they approach the base to imitate Egyptian pylons. Each door is also capped with an Egyptian revival shallow pediment.

The east dining room has retained its woodwork with an identical mantel and adjacent four door closet. The six panels above and two below, have the same ogee inset moldings. It is framed the same way also.

Back stair rises along the north wall of the dining room.

The kitchen has an end wall fireplace with beaded board enclosed winder stair and closet below. The door and window surrounds are plain.

William Wilson was a fruit grower from New Castle County, De. and who had amassed 3200 acres by 1877. ~~Historical records indicate that Wilson owned from~~ ^{and} The mid 19th century house is typical form for the state with its "Georgian" plan, a universally accepted house type. In fact this is one of three houses almost exactly alike that front Price Road. The other two are in Delaware.

The house is in remarkable shape and retains most if not all of its mid 19th century detailing. The interior woodwork is certainly not unique but never the less good examples of the period and especially the Egyptian influence.
