Summary paragraph:

The house is a two-and-a-half story, three bay by two bay brick structure sheathed in asbestos siding. The complex contains the house, a barn, a summer house, chicken house, tractor shed, cow stalls, well house and several frame sheds that form a Hollow Square farm layout.

Description

House (1830-1860)

The farmhouse is a 2-1/2 story, three bay by two bay, brick structure sheathed in asbestos siding. The house is an "I" House which has been converted to a four-over-four by the addition of dividing walls on each floor. The metal gable roof with interior brick chimney on the north gable end and exterior brick chimney on the south, is parallel to the road. The principal [east] facade's central doorway is flanked by a wood, double-hung, two-over-two window. A small four column, wood balustrade porch protects the central entry. Fenestration on all elevations consists of wood, double-hung six-over-six windows. A shed addition and half porch are affixed to the west elevation on the southern end.

Barn (1830-1860)

The 2-1/2 story frame with fieldstone foundation bank barn is located to the southeast of the main house. The metal gable roof is perpendicular to the road and wood ventilators are located on the north [ramp] elevation. The forebay area is oriented towards the south.

Outbuildings (1830-1860)

Attached to the main house by a shared roof on the west elevation is a 1-1/2 story summer house, two bays by three bays. The clapboard structure has a metal gable roof with interior brick chimney on its north gable end and a small porch on its principal [south] facade. There are wood, double-hung, six-over-six windows on three elevations.

A cinder block pump/well house is located south of the summer house. A 1-1/2 story, frame on cinder block foundation chicken house and frame cow stalls are located west of the barn. South of the pump/well house is a frame shed that may have been a carriage house at one time. A modern, frame, gambrel roof tractor barn has been erected to the east of the barn.

8. Significance

Summary paragraph:

The Steffe Farm is representative of a nineteenth century farmstead. The house was originally an "I" House Plan with central hall. It is a rural vernacular style common throughout Carroll County and the project area.

History:

Located on the northwest corner of the intersection at Cape Horn Road and Hanover Pike [Maryland Route 30], north of Greenmount, the Steffe Farm is one of the few extant nineteenth century farmsteads still in use as a farm with all outbuildings intact and retaining original fabric. The house appears on the 1862 Martenet Atlas [owner - Henry Steffey] and the 1877 Lake, Griffing and Stevenson Atlas [owner - H. Steffe].

Evaluation:

The property is not eligible for the National Register of Historic Places. The property is not eligible under Criterion A; no significant events historically or agriculturally have been determined to be associated with the property. The property is not eligible under Criterion B; no persons significant in local, state or national history have been determined to be associated with the property. The property is not eligible under Criterion C; the farmhouse has been altered and modernized to such an extent that its integrity has been compromised. There are more intact farmhouses representing a similar form and period located throughout the project area and the county.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Steffey/Steffe Farm is located at the northwest corner of Maryland Route 30 and Cape Horn Road south of Manchester. It is comprised of a farmhouse surrounded by a number of trees, and a group of outbuildings and a large barn, all set in open fields. The driveway to the complex from Route 30 is lined by trees on the north side.

The farmhouse faces east to Route 30, and is 2 1/2 stories high with a gable roof, ridge parallel to the road, and three bays wide by two deep, sheathed with white siding. It has two brick end chimneys, the southern one on the exterior, behind the ridge of the roof, and the northern one an interior chimney on the ridge.

The principal facade contains three 6/6 windows on the second story, and on the first floor, a central doorway is flanked on each side by a 6/6 window. All windows have dark shutters. Sheltering the doorway is a half-hipped roof porch, supported by four columns with a balustrade, and leading to a central stairway. The south and north gable ends have similar 6/6 windows on the first and second stories, and small four light windows in the attic story.

Immediately behind the house is a white gable roofed building; to the south and west are assorted outbuildings; and to the south of the house is a large red barn on a stone foundation, with an overhang on its south side. It is seven bays wide by two deep, with white louvred ventilators and white corner boards. On the south facade are two doors, one taller than the other, and both outlined in white paint. The north side is relatively blank, with a few windows.

The property is probably that of Henry Steffey shown on an 1862 Martenet atlas of Carroll County, and H. Steffe on the 1877 Lake, Griffing and Stevenson atlas of the County.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Steffey Farm is significant as an intact and well preserved Carroll County farm, in an undisturbed agricultural setting. The farm features a substantial farmhouse of possibly early date, and a fine barn which is an excellent example of its type; both are intact and largely unaltered.
