DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This two-story frame farmhouse is situated near the ridge of a bowl-shaped ravine. The L-shaped, gable-roofed house faces southeast. A large frame bank barn stands to the northeast. A stone springhouse appears to the southwest.

A two-story cross-gabled porch covers the facade's central bay. The three-bay facade includes a central entrance on either floor. The two-bay-deep house is lit by 2/2 sash windows surrounded by plain flat boards. One single-pane window lights each gable end. A round window appears in the ell's northwest gable end at the attic level.

Porches cross the northeast and southwest sides of the house. The latter has been enclosed at its west end. Entrances appear on either side of the kitchen ell. Exterior brick stove flue chimneys heat the house, one at the west end of the southwest side, and another at the ell's northwest end.

The cellar's exposed southeast side has been enclosed by a concrete block structure.

Corrugated sheet-metal covers the roof. Insul-brick sheathes the walls. The house stands on a stone foundation. Stone piers underpin the porch.
