DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Helen Ault House is located on Old Engle Mill Road, just east of the Owen and Mary Bach House (G-II-B-210), in the town of Accident.

The house is a two-story, gable-roofed, T-plan dwelling with a three-bay, center-door facade. The facade points north. A one-story, shed-roofed porch covers the facade and a one-story, enclosed shed porch fills the T on the south and east elevations. A one-story, shed-roofed addition fills the T on the south and west elevations.

The house rests on a low cut stone foundation and is covered with white asbestos shingles. The windows are one over one sash, and all surrounds have been obscured. The facade door has a single-pane transom and is flanked on both sides by one-story, three-sided bays. Each side contains a window.

The roof is covered with standing seam metal and the facade exhibits a cross gable. The house has one interior brick stove chimney at the south gable end of the T. The facade porch roof is covered with standing seam metal and is supported by turned posts with jigsaw brackets. The enclosed porch on the south and east elevations has a cinderblock foundation and is covered similarly to the rest of the house.

The interior plan has a central hall but is otherwise unknown.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

According to the owner, the house was built by a prominent local builder. A cellar cornerstone gives the building date as 1900. This house is an example of a common western Maryland type. Houses of this general configuration, a rectangular main block and rear kitchen wing, were constructed in Garrett County from the late nineteenth through the early twentieth centuries. This house is somewhat more elaborate than other examples, possibly due to its place in the town of Accident.
