Thomas Isaac's Log Cabin
Ellicott City
Private

Circa 1780

This three bay wide, one room deep, one and a half story gabled roof (running north-south) log structure built on a stone foundation has a brick chimney inset into its south wall and a central rectangular west entrance flanked by rectangular windows. It sits into the slope of the land and was in 1870 the meeting place for the organizers of the Saint Luke A.M.E. Church, which celebrated its 100th anniversary in September 1970 and is now located on Main Street.

Owned by Thomas Isaac in 1878, it probably furnished a comfortable and scenic home for one of Ellicott City's first settlers.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Stanton Log Cabin is located on the east side of Merryman Street adjacent to a small stream which flows several feet east of the cabin, providing a sylvan and picturesque setting for this quaint structure. It is a three bay wide, one room deep, one and a half story high, gabled roof (running north-south) log structure which is filled in with thin pieces of slate and stones stuck together with mud. A brick chimney is inset into its south wall, with a square attic window on each side of it. The west wall holds a central entrance flanked by rectangular windows, all of which are now boarded up. Two rectangular attic windows are located on its north wall, one large one is centered into the eave, the smaller one east of it.

The north wall of this log cabin has been covered with vertical wooden planks to strengthen and support it. The entrance door, located in the west bay has been boarded up horizontally. The log structure is laid on a stone foundation which follows the contour of the land, sloping down to the east. This foundation holds a battan wood rectangular cellar entrance door on the north wall.

The east elevation holds two rectangular first floor double-hung rectangular first floor double-hung windows with six-over-six lights.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This log cabin is believed to have been built circa 1780 according to the estimates of local historians and probably served originally as a settler's hut. In 1870 this log structure provided a meeting place for the organizers of the Saint Luke A.M.E. Church, now located on Main Street which celebrated its 100th anniversary in September, 1970. The location for the Saint Luke A.M.E. Church was changed by 1878 to an adjacent building on the east side of the stream which runs east of the present log structure. (please see attachment 3, Hopkin's Atlas.) It was owned at that time by Thomas Isaac. Presently used for storage and boarded up, it awaits renovation and rehabilitation by an enthusiastic and creative presentationist.

As one of Ellicott City's oldest landmarks it should be considered for inclusion to the National Register of Historic Places and any future local landmark legislation.

Note:

The following property transactions are noted in the Howard County Court House Record's Office:

Isaiah Mercer, Jr. conveyed the property to Thomas Isaac on January 6, 1858 (19-41). This property is noted on the Hopkins Atlas of 1878. Some four years later in his will of 27 May, 1882 Thomas Isaac conveyed all this property to his nephew, William M. Isaac. In 1911 William M. Isaac left the property to his next of kin, Z. Howard Isaac et al, who in 1914 (wills 9-388) left all his property to his mother, Eleanor P. Isaac who died intestate in 1933. John Henry Stanton acquired the property and left it to his widow, the present owner in 1963.
