DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The JP Tarenz Log House faces north on the west side of Duval Road 3/10 of a mile north of its intersection with Ed. Warfield Road. It is a two bay wide, one room deep, two story high, gabled roof (running east-west) painted log house with stone chimney inset into its east wall. The windows are rectangular, double-hung, vertically aligned and decorated with flat wooden lintels and shutters. The first floor of the north elevation holds an additional central entrance door bay.

A two bay wide, one room deep, two story high, gabled roof (running east-west) frame east wing has been added to the east wall of this old log house. It features two intersecting gables on its north wall, which hold rectangular, double-hung windows with six-over-six lights. A one story high, shed roofed, semi-enclosed appendage, holding two first floor, double-hung windows with six-over-six lights, decorated with green shutters on its north wall, extends from the north wall of the frame east wing. It holds no apertures on its east wall which lies flush with the east wall of the east wing of the house. This wall holds an open bible and cross paneled rectangular entrance door, surmounted by a three light transom and flat wooden lintel on its south.

Above rest two rectangular second floor, double-hung windows with six-over-six lights, decorated with green shutters.

Extending south of this latter wing's south wall is a two story high, one room wide, one room deep, gabled roof (running north-south) frame addition. Its east wall lies flush with the east wall of the east wing and holds a six-six light casement window, flanked by flat pilasters, underlined by a projecting wooden sill and covered by a narrow shed roof. A two story high bay window is featured on its south wall. The log cabin was moved to its present site from nearby Cherry Grove sometime after the Civil War, when the slaves were freed and given their log houses.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The J.P. Tarenz Log House is significant architecturally as well as historically.

Architecturally it is a fine example of an eighteenth century or early nineteenth log slave cabin (moved from its original site on nearby Cherry Grove after the Civil War) which has been incorporated into the present residence of Mr. and Mrs. Timourian, who have painted the log house white.

Historically it is associated with Cherry Grove, constructed in 1768 by Benjamin Warfield who on Monday, March 2, 1778, was issued a commission as Captain in The Elk Ridge Battalion of Militia, by order of the Council. Cherry Grove is located on what was once called the Rolling Road which was used to roll tobacco to the waiting ships at Elk Ridge who proceeded to England with their cargo. Cherry Grove was a bustline plantation and many log cabins were located in the wooded hallow which has now been cleared and holds a small pond. The J. P. Tarenz Log House is one of these cabins which after the Civil War were given to the freed slaves and moved from its original site.

Important to the history and architecture of Howard County and the State of Maryland as representative of an eighteenth century log slave quarters attached to one of Howard County's most significant landmarks, its inclusion to the National Register of Historic Sites is recommended, should its owners so wish.
