Lisbon
Private

Circa 1850

The Webb House faces south on the north west corner of Routes 144 and 94 in the village of Lisbon. It is a five bay wide, one room deep, two and a half story high, gabled roof (running east-west), frame (covered with white aluminum siding) house with wide corbeled brick chimneys inset into its east and west and central partition walls. The rectangular paneled central entrance door is flanked by three side lights and surmounted by a five light transom. Two three-three light rectangular french doors rest on each side of the entrance and open on to a one story high, flat roofed open porch supported by six square columns. Above rest second floor vertically aligned and proportionally scaled windows with two gabled roof dormer windows surmounted by closed pediments. A two story high north wing forms an "L" plan.

It is noted on the 1860 Martenet Map and the 1878 Hopkins Atlas for Lisbon as a Webb property owned originally by William A. Webb, Sr., a prominent land owner of Lisbon and Howard County.

The Webb House is located on the northwest corner of Routes 144 and 94. It faces south, a five bay wide, one room deep, two and a half story high, gabled roof (running east-west), frame (covered with white aluminum siding) house with wide corbeled brick chimneys inset into its east and west and central partition walls. The rectangular paneled central entrance door is flanked by three side lights and surmounted by a five light transom. Two three-three light rectangular french doors rest on each side of the entrance, all of which are covered by a one story high, flat roofed, open porch supported by six square columns on square brick piles, running along the entire south elevation with its cement landing. One very wide cement step rests before the central entrance door. The five second floor windows on this south wall are vertically aligned, proportionally scaled, rectangular and double-hung, holding one-over-one lights (the upper half of the central window holds six lights.) The two gabled roof dormer windows on this elevation hold similar windows surmounted by closed pediments. This section's west wall holds two first and second floor six-over-six windows and two four light attic windows. The east elevation holds only two four light attic windows. A four bay wide, two story high, one room deep, intersecting gable roof (running north-south) north wing extends from the two west bays of the north wall. (The remainder of the north wall holds three six-over-six second floor windows). Its west elevation holds two rectangular double-hung windows with six-over-one lights and a double window, each component similar to the other windows already described. A rectangular entrance door rests in the south bay of this wall, surmounted by a two light transom. Four second floor six-over-six windows lie above. All are alike and decorated with black wooden shutters except the six-over-one window in the second south bay. A hipped roof, one story high open porch, supported by five round doric columns, runs along this entire elevation, with a cement landing. The north wall of this addition holds a hipped roof, one story high addition whose north wall holds a double window, each component holding six-over-one lights. The east wall of this north wing holds a double, double-hung window, each component holding six-over-one lights in the south bay, a nine light rectangular entrance in the central bay and a rectangular, double-hung window holding six-over-six lights in the north bay. A two story high, shed roofed open porch runs along this entire elevation, three square posts on the first floor and five square posts on the second floor. Two rectangular entrances on the east wall of the north addition and one on the north wall of the main section of the house lead on to the second floor porch.

A three bay wide, one bay deep, one story high, flat roofed addition runs from the two story high porch along the entire remainder of the north wall of the main body of the house. It holds a central twelve light rectangular entrance door with a one-over-one light window in the east bay and a six-over-six light window in the west bay of this wall.

SPECIFIC DATES Circa 1850 BUILDER/ARCHITECT

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Webb House is significant architecturally and historically.

Architecturally it is the most dominant house in scale in the small town of Lisbon, rivaled only by the Warfield House, HO-233 and the presently dilapidated old Lisbon Hotel, HO-206. It is five bays wide and two and a half stories high with a two story high, north addition which forms an "L" plan.

In addition to governing the small town of Lisbon by its scale it dominates in acreage. Presently located on 83.40 acres of land on the north west corner of Routes 144 and 94, it rises above the other lots in Lisbon whose acreage ranges from 1/4 acre to one acre of surrounding land. The Webb Farm at one time (21 June, 1870) comprised 314 acres and in 1888, 230 acres. This later acreage was maintained up through April 15, 1943 (177-486) when Harry U. Selby sold the Webb House to William E. and Dorothy Trail.

Architecturally it is noteworthy for its fine proportions and south facade with its central rectangular entrance flanked by three side lights, surmounted by a five light transom. Its architectural style suggests the early 1800's before the gothic and romanesque revival of the 1860's began to influence American domestic architecture.

Historically the Webb House is associated with William A. Webb who held several lots in Lisbon as well as larger tracts of land in Howard County. The grantee book in the land records of Howard County devotes more than half a page to his numerous land and mortgage acquisitions. The house passed to his widow and his son William A. Webb, Jr. in 1870. On October 19, 1978 Mr. Merrick, trustee sold the property to Levi Webb for $5,197.50. Levi Webb owned the property for ten years, after which it was put up for public auction and purchased by John M. Delashmilt who almost immediately sold it to E. Green Selby on November 3, 1888 for $9,250 (54-2). It was held by the Selby family until 1943 when it was sold to Dr. and Mrs. Trail who made it a veritable show place according to the reports of local residents.

Now owned by Howard Associates, it is a rental property and its future uncertain. It is hoped that it can be sold with an acre of ground and made the private home of someone who will appreciate its heritage and its significance to Howard County history.

For these reasons it, as well as the town of Lisbon, should be recommended for a National Landmark District as well as inclusion to the State Critical Areas Program.
