DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This is a log cabin that appears to be of more recent construction than most seen in the County. What is most unusual about it is that it has a gable-front facade, with a center window in the gable-end, and a fascia molding along the roof-line that flares into square end-boards. The gable-end itself is sheathed with clapboards, and the squared logs of the house are exposed. Most of the old stone and mortar chinking remains, and the logs are cut in the usual, V-notch manner. Apparently, the house used stoves instead of a fireplace.

Although the house probably dates from the late-1800's/early-1900's, it is notable due to its gable facade and central door that give it a Greek Revival appearance.
