The Frank Higgins House is a 2-1/2 story house, 5 bays wide with 2 over 2 windows, constructed of brick and the roof is covered in asphalt shingles. While this is a 19th century house, the building lacks integrity. SHA proposed that it along with several other houses might form an extension of the West Montgomery Avenue Historic District. However, given the lack of integrity, the Trust is of the opinion that the house and the district are not eligible for inclusion in the National Register of Historic Places under Criteria A, B or C.

Description

This two and a half story, three bay by three bay frame house sits close to Great Falls Road facing northwest. Its exterior walls are covered by grey asbestos shingles. The northwest porch has a shed roof supported by two chamfered posts with jigsawed brackets. There are two over two double hung windows arranged singly and in pairs. There is a two story, three sided bay window at the west corner. On the northeast elevation there is a two story square bay window. The house has a cross gable roof. The cornice line is boxed and returned.

10. Significance: Part of an area once known as "Higginsville", the house is important for being representative of the stylish and comfortable suburban residences built as Rockville's population grew. It was the home of Frank Higgins, one of the two sons of Sophia Dorothy Barnard Higgins, who, upon the death of her husband in 1870, purchased a parcel of 13 7/8 acres just west of the City limits. Sophia was a well-educated strong-willed person, who had insisted that her slave-owning husband renounce farming and purchase a general merchandising business in Rockville. Sophia built her house at 308 Great Falls Road and sold adjacent half-acre homesites to her sons, John J. and Frank, a lawyer practicing in Rockville. He engaged builder Edwin West to construct his six room house by 1888 at a cost of $1,800. Frank and his wife Roberta lived at 304 Great Falls Road until their deaths in 1922 (Frank) and 1936 (Roberta). Their daughter, Roberta P., lived there until her death in 1958. It has been sold twice since.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This two and a half story, three bay by three bay frame house, sits close to Great Falls Road facing northwest.

Built on brick and stone foundations, this house has been covered by grey asbestos shingles. The northwest (front) porch has a shed roof supported by two chamfered posts with jigsawed brackets. The northwest (front) door has a round headed paneled door and is surmounted by a single light transom.

There are two over two and one over one double hung windows arranged as singles or in pairs. On the southwest elevation, at the west corner, there is a two story three sided bay window. At the first level the three sides of the bay are splayed, while at the second story the sides are squared. A decorative pendant hangs down from the overhanging squared corner. This bay is known as the "Rockville" bay as it is a very popular local architectural feature. On the northeast elevation there is a two story square bay window.

The cross gable roof has asbestos shingle covering, and the cornice line is boxed and returned. There are two interior brick chimneys.

This house was probably enlarged two times. Upon entering the center hall the dining room is to the right. This projects forward from the hall and has the "Rockville" bay window. To the left of the hall is the living room. This has been enlarged by a sitting room with a fireplace at the southeast wall. Across the hall from the sitting room is the kitchen. In 1967 the southeast (rear) screened porch was enclosed to provide a family room addition. There are stairs in the center hall which ascend from northwest to southeast. This open string double run stairway has a carved newel post and turned balusters. A second stairway begins in the kitchen and is a closed string winder stairway. The floors in the house are narrow Georgia pine. The walls and ceilings are plaster over lath and plasterboard. The doorways are molded and the wooden doors are paneled. In the dining room the fireplace has a marbelized slate mantle and an ornate cast iron surround.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Frank Higgins house is part of the area once known as "Higginsville", a parcel subdivided by Sophia Higgins into homesites for her family. "Higginsville" is representative of the movement westward of Rockville's population center in the years following the opening of the Metropolitan Branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company.

Following the death of her husband, John Hamilton Higgins, in 1870, his widow Sophia Dorothy Barnard Higgins purchased approximately 13-7/8th acres just west of the City limits.¹ Sophia was the well-educated, strong-willed daughter of English parents, who insisted that her slave-owning husband renounce farming and purchase a general merchandising business in Rockville.² After an "Article of Agreement" to confirm boundary lines with her adjacent neighbors,³ Mrs. Higgins built her home (at 308 Great Falls Road) and sold adjacent half-acre homesites to her sons John J. and Frank. Frank, who was a lawyer practicing in Rockville, received his half-acre in 1886,⁴ and engaged builder Edwin West⁵ to construct his six-room house by 1888 at a cost of $1,800. His first child, Roberta, was born in her grandmother Sophia's house next door, and his second, Laura Mildred, was born in the new house at 304 Great Falls Road.

In January 1889, a new deed was recorded from Sophia to Frank and his wife Roberta to correct an error of 22' in establishing a place of beginning in the 1886 deed; this deed notes that Sophia lived next door.⁶ That same month, Sophia deeded another homesite of one-half acre to John J. and his wife Laura, just north of Frank's lot.⁷ John and Laura built their 9 room house, with an improved hot water heating apparatus, later that year.⁸ Having established her family at "Higginsville", Sophia Higgins in 1890 sold the remaining 12½ acres to J. Heath Dodge, along with her house, orchard, and fish pond, and built a larger house a block to the northeast.⁹

Frank and Roberta Higgins lived at 304 Great Falls Road until their deaths; he died in 1922 and she in 1936. Their daughter Roberta P. lived there until her death in 1958, and it was then sold by the heirs to Lewis Roberts.¹⁰ Roberts sold the house and one-half acre to Robert and Ruth Shawn in 1966.
