Levin Waters House
Upper Hill
Private

Located on the north side of an unpaved road known as Waters Lane is a two-story, three-bay frame dwelling historically identified as the Levin Waters house. Dating to the late nineteenth century, the two-story, center hall/single-pile structure extends to the rear with a two-story, one-room plan kitchen wing. A cross gabled porch shelters the first floor front, and chamfered posts are embellished with decorative sawn corner brackets. Unusual to the bracket design is a four-leaf clover emblem. Other late nineteenth century architectural features include two-over-two sash windows, fishscale shingles, and corbelled cap brick chimneys which pierce the roofline.

Chain of title research for this lot indicate it was the former residence of Levin Waters. After his death around 1924, the property was sold by a court trustee to Graham Waters for $205, "being all that lot of land whereon the Levin Waters resided in his lifetime containing one acre, lying and binding on the west side of the county road leading to the Davy farm."

Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

The Levin Waters house, also known as the Graham Waters house, is located at 27788 Waters Lane on the western edge of Upper Hill, Somerset County, Maryland. The two-story, three-bay, center hall frame house faces south with the gable roof oriented on an east/west axis.

Dating to the late nineteenth century, c. 1890-1900, the two-story, single-pile frame house rests on a brick pier foundation, and the exterior is clad with asbestos shingles. The steeply pitched gable roof, finished with extended eaves and open soffits, is covered with a layer of asphalt shingles. Piercing the roofline is a pair of interior corbelled cap brick chimneys which flank the center hall. Attached to the back of the main block is a two-story, one-bay by one room kitchen wing which is extended by gable and shed roofed additions.

The south (main) elevation is a symmetrical three-bay facade with a center entrance and flanking two-over-two sash windows. The window sash are framed by a narrow beaded edge trim. A cross-gabled front porch shelters the first floor. Chamfered porch posts, trimmed with decorative corner brackets, support the roof. Centered in the porch bracket is a four-leaf clover emblem. The porch cross gable is covered with fishscale shingles. The second floor is marked by three two-over-two sash windows. Although shutters no longer remain on the house, the shutter hooks remain intact.

The east and west gable ends are alike with single two-over-two sash windows on each floor. A pointed arch window marks the upper gable end and lights the attic.

Attached to the rear is a two-story, one-bay by one-room plan kitchen wing. The kitchen wing as well as the rear wall of the main block are pierced by six-over-six sash windows. An interior end brick chimney rises through the gable end. Single story shed and gable roofed additions extend the kitchen on the north and west sides.

The interior was not seen.
