DESCRIPTION:

The house is a circa 1912-1914 period masonry structure with cut stone exterior walls, brick window lintels, brick belt courses in line with the window sills, a three bay symmetrical facade (east elevation), and a hip roof with a central segmentally arched dormer on the facade. The structure is two and a half stories high with large proportions, and a two story wing projecting from the south side, a wooden columned portico here, and a wide entrance portico with pairs of columns. The principal windows are double-hung wooden sashes with multi-lights on the second floor and wooden casements with transoms on the first. The roof has a wide overhang. The wing which is masonry is decorated on the exterior with wooden trellis work and pilasters giving the effect of screened porches.

A recently constructed garage stands to the west. The interior was not inspected.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

SIGNIFICANCE:

This stylistically eclectic house appears to have been built about 1913-1914 probably for Charles Frank Wise and his wife Florence who purchased the property in December 1912 (Deed Book 140, p. 331). The value of the property is listed in this deed as $1,120. When the Wises sold the property in 1918 to John J. Porter and his wife Edith, the value is given as $3,375 (Deed Book 153, p. 517). The Porter family retained ownership until 1960 (Deed Book 359, p. 585). Neither the Wises nor the Porters appear in the early city directories. When constructed this house was remotely located and may not have been annexed into the city limits until the 1920s or 1930s.

The house is typical of the large scale residences that dot the north end of Hagerstown. These houses were generally built in the first third of the twentieth century when this section of the city was under development. The concentration of houses of this type is found in the Oak Hill addition a few blocks to the south. These houses are generally large scale, set in garden type surroundings, primarily masonry, and with two or three architectural styles evident. The area developed primarily as a professional class neighborhood. This house stands in an area of the north end planned for the Hagerstown Mutual Realty Company in 1911 (Land Plat No. 101.)

On the 1926 Sanborn map, this house is labeled as being fireproof construction containing fire proof floors and roof plus curtain walls.
