DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This farmhouse is located on the south side of I-70 just east of the Maryland Route 63 interchange north of Williamsport in Washington County, Maryland. It is situated on a rise of ground and faces west.

The structure is a two story, five bay stone dwelling with a one story, two bay wing attached to its north gable end. The building material is coursed local fieldstone with flat arches of brick above some openings. Windows appear to have been placed symmetrically in the front elevation, with there being greater space between the central bay and the end bays. Where window and door casings remain, the framing is narrow. Sashes have been removed. The main entrance is centered in the front elevation. The roof has a relatively low pitch and was recently rebuilt and covered with asphalt shingles. Brick chimneys are located inside the end walls.

In front of the house are ruins of a frame bank barn and behind it stand several wooden outbuildings. The house is in deteriorated condition and is located on a tract containing 100.2 acres. The property is said to be inaccessible from public right of ways. The farm includes parts of the land grants "Resurvey on Salisbury" and "Nazereth."
