

ABSTRACT

WA-I-381

Early 19th Century

Part of Conococheague Manor

Britner Farm (common)

Williamsport Vicinity

private

This farm complex consists of a two part, two story, five bay house, presumably of log construction sheathed with German siding and a frame bank barn. Little datable architectural evidence is extant at the exterior of the house, but the presence of a few remaining nine over six sashes, if original to this building, could suggest an early 19th century construction date. The house stands on part of "Conococheague Manor", an 18th century proprietary holding containing nearly 11,000 acres retained by Lord Baltimore until about 1767.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This farmstead is located at the end of a private lane which extends in a southeasterly direction from Doub Road, east of Williamsport and the Penn Central Railroad tracks in Washington County. It is situated on an area of relatively level ground with the buildings facing south.

The house is a two part, two story structure five bays in length and resting on fieldstone foundations. The three eastern bays form the larger section of the house which is higher in elevation than the western part which may be an addition. A leanto addition is attached to the east end wall. The house is of log construction sheathed with German siding.

Openings appear to be aligned with each other at the first and second stories but are spaced at random in the walls. All openings are trimmed with late 19th century style architraves with pointed top pieces. One nine over six light sash is present in the center bay of the east section at the second story and one at the rear elevation of the same section also at the second story. Some six over six light sashes are used in the west section and at the first story level of the east part. Elsewhere, two over two or modern single pane sashes are present.

Entrances are located in the second and fourth bays from the west end of the front elevation. A shed roofed front porch supported by square posts between which runs a series of three rails extends across the entire front elevation. It rests on piers of old concrete and stone. The porch ceiling cuts across the window and door architraves.

The roof is sheathed with sheet metal which has been placed over asphalt ^{shingles}. It extends beyond the end walls of the house. Brick chimneys are located inside the gable end walls, the flue at the west end being quite small.

West of the house is a frame bank barn. The buildings are in deteriorated condition and stand on a farm containing 163 acres.
