Description:

This two story log house probably dates from the late 18th century. It is a four bay structure covered with asbestos shingle siding. Windows have two over two pane sash with arched tops and louvered shutters. The main entrance is located in the third bay from the east end of the house. It is sheltered by a one bay Italianate porch. This place represents the early (late 18th and early 19th century) development of Funkstown along a prominent highway. It is also located opposite the site of the Funkstown Manufacturing Company, an early industrial and mill site.

According to the 1877 Atlas for Funkstown this house was then owned by J. Garver.
