DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Beaver Creek School Museum is located along the west side of Beaver Creek Church Road about 1/2 mile north of Beaver Creek Road in the Beaver Creek area of Washington County, Maryland. It is situated on a high area of ground and faces east or toward the road.

The structure is a one-story, five-bay brick schoolhouse with white wooden trim. The facade wall is broken by a one-bay projecting bell tower which includes the main entrance.

The walls are set on limestone foundations topped with a course of cut brownstone. The bricks are laid in common bond with seven courses of stretchers between header rows. Decorative work associated with the walls includes projecting corner buttresses with brownstone trim and brick trimmed Gothic-style window and door arches with brownstone keystones.

Windows appear to have been placed evenly in the front and rear walls of the building. Within their arch topped frames, the windows have nine-over-six light sashes. Wide brownstone sills form the bottom of the window framing.

The main entrance is located in the center bay of the front elevation under a massive square bell tower.

The hipped roof is covered with slate. The bell tower also has a hipped roof with an imbricated slate pattern.

The school house was built in 1904 on land conveyed to the Washington County Board of Education by Louis P. Doub, et al, executors for the estate of Philip R. Doub.

The school is at present in use as a museum which is operated by the Washington County Historical Society. In addition to temporary special exhibits, the museum houses permanent exhibits featuring objects from the second half of the 19th century.

The school stands on a tract containing 121 perches. It is in excellent condition.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The areas of significance of the Beaver Creek School Museum are its architecture, its role as an educational institution of the early 20th century and its present social importance as a museum housing artifacts relating to 19th century life and culture. Architecturally, the school which was built in 1904 is an example of a public building of the turn of the century period. Built during the late Victorian period, it was the third school to be constructed at Beaver Creek. The two earlier buildings were located east of Beaver Creek Road opposite the present school building.

In 1971, the Beaver Creek School was acquired by the Washington County Historical Society for use as a museum. It is open to the public on summer Sundays from 1 to 4pm.
