DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (If known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This house is located along the south side of Beaver Creek Road several hundred feet east of its junction with Beaver Creek Church Road in Washington County, Maryland. It is situated on a flat area of ground and faces north or toward the road.

The structure is a two-bay, one-and-a-half story stone dwelling with a one-story shed roof addition extending to its rear.

It is constructed of roughly coursed local fieldstone and shows no decorative masonry.

The main entrance is located in the east bay of the front or north wall. The treatment of the doorway is very simple and without decorative trim. A large stone lintel is present over the opening.

Windows at the main floor of the building contain six-over-six light double-hung sashes. Woodwork associated with the windows is plain and generally appears more recent than the structure. The upper half story is lit by a pair of small gable roofed dormers set in the north slope of the roof.

A brick chimney, the top of which has fallen away, is located inside the east gable end of the house. The roof is covered with sheet metal and terminates at the gables with a plain barge set against the house walls.

The house is in deteriorated condition and stands on a two-acre tract.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The area of significance of this house is its architecture. It is one of a number of stone houses along the Beaver Creek. Several mills were located in the area, one of which (Doub's Mill, WA-II-090) still stands. It is probable that the numerous stone houses in the area dating from the late 18th and early 19th century were associated with the milling business.

The entire Beaver Creek area is outstanding for its architectural and scenic merit.
