C. 1900

A semi-circular window lights the cross-gable of this two-story frame farmhouse. A modern one-story addition runs to the rear of the north-facing three-bay dwelling. A stove flue located east of center heats the building. A door occupying the middle bay is placed west of center. The three second-floor windows are evenly spaced. A porch supported by turned posts protects the entrance. Weatherboards sheath the house, and plain flat boards frame the 6/6 sash windows.
