Four sections compose this two-story frame farmhouse. The main three-bay, west-facing section is followed to the east by a two-bay section set on the perpendicular. Another section extending from this part includes a four-sided bay window adjoining its north side.

Brick chimneys heat the center of the main section, the north side of the middle section, and the east end of the rear section. A hip-roofed porch covers the facade. The facade's central door features a single large window. Turned posts support the porch roof.

Two over two windows light the house. Patterned metal shingles cover the roof. Asbestos shingles sheathe the walls.

Two frame outbuildings stand behind the house. A frame tobacco barn is located about 500 yards east of the house.
