

SM-16, U.S.S. Tulip Monument
St. Mary's County
Capsule Summary

The U.S.S. Tulip Monument marks a small cemetery on St. Inigoes Creek accessed by a grassy lane off Cross Manor Road just outside the gate of Cross Manor in St. Inigoes. The light gray granite stele type monument stands approximately 7' high on a concrete pad. The front of the monument is embellished with an incised design of a stylized eagle. An interpretive bronze shield mounted on a low concrete plinth is set into a gravel-paved area on the ground in front of the monument.

The U.S.S. Tulip Monument is associated with the fourth rate gunboat assigned to the Potomac Flotilla Base at Cross Manor on St. Inigoes Creek during the Civil War, and commemorates the crew who lost their lives in the explosion of the starboard boiler and sinking of the vessel, eight of whom were buried on the Flotilla Base grounds. Tulip is more significant for its role in the changing technology of American warships than for its engagements, marking the period when steam engines overtook sail power, and specifically the development of screw steam vessels. The burial site was purchased by the U.S. government in 1939 and the monument was erected on June 15, 1940 per act of Congress of June 15, 1937.
