 DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Gough Farm is located on the north side of Maryland Route 5, west of Leonardtown. The house and its outbuildings sit on a slight rise, in a yard surrounded by fields.

The house is a 2 1/2 story Colonial Revival cube, three bays wide by four deep, sheathed with white novelty siding, and with a pyramidal roof. The front facade faces south towards Route 5, and contains a hip dormer with two four light square windows; on the second floor, there are three 6/6 windows with shutters. On the first floor, there is a doorway in the west bay, with two long windows with shutters to the east. A one-story wooden screen porch extends along this facade, and has a low pediment in its center.

The west facade also has a hip dormer. On the second floor there are three windows like those on the south facade, two of them grouped together in the north end. On the first floor, there is a window at each end. Halfway between the first and second stories, in the second bay from the southwest corner, there is a window, suggesting a stairway inside.

The east facade has a hip dormer and four windows on both floors, again 6/6 and with shutters. To the north is a one story shed roof addition.

To the north of the house are three outbuildings in a row, possibly of an early date.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Gough property is of interest for its nicely designed and well preserved Colonial Revival house, and for its nearby three outbuildings which may possibly be of an early date.
