SM-541
Bell Motor Company Building
Leonardtwn
Private

c. 1939

In 1918, J. Ernest Bell and T. Webster Bell opened a farm implements and appliance store in Pearson, Maryland. The two, however, made an important step on January 17, 1923. It was on this date that they began a Chevrolet franchise car dealership. Today, Bell Motors is the second oldest Chevrolet car dealership in the entire world.

— In 1939 the Bell's erected a modern brick building in Leonardtown at the southwest corner of Park Avenue and Washington Street. Soon after they opened their Leonardtown office, Pearson, Maryland and much of the land around it was condemned by the United States government to make way for the Patuxent Naval Air Station. After 1942, the Bell's focused their business in the town. Like many automobile dealerships in the early and mid-twentieth century, the Bell's not ~~only~~ sold cars but also farming implements, trucks, tractors, refridgerators, washing machines and many other appliances. These products, however, were dropped in the 1950s and 1960s as the Bell's concentrated on selling cars.

— The brick, one and two story building in Leonardtown, while extensively modified to accomodate the expansion and changes of the business, remains a significant commercial building located in the center of Leonardtown. The primary elevation with its large picture windows and tan brick surrounds are distinctive characteristics of the building.

The Bell Motor Company Building is located on the southwest corner of Park Avenue and Washington Street in the public square of Leonardtown, Maryland. The building, oriented on a east-west axis, is bounded by Park Avenue on the north, Washington Street on the east, the Leonardtown Bank of the Eastern Shore Trust Company (SM-345) on the south, and by a large parking lot on the west.

Erected in 1939, the two story, five-to-one common bond brick commercial building has a flat roof and a one story brick addition on the south side. The building extends almost the full length of the lot. The primary or east elevation of the main section is distinguished by a centrally located pair of metal doors, shaded by a semicircular awning, flanked on either side by three picture windows. Immediately above these bays is a black and white sign that reads "BELL MOTOR CO." Above this sign are a series of five, two light casement windows surrounded on all sides by decorative, vertically placed, tan colored, soldier bricks. Above this decorative brickwork is a stepped parapet that hides the flat roof. The same elevation of the 1950s one story addition, constructed in an all stretcher bond, exhibits a similar decorative treatment--a centrally located metal door flanked on either side by three medium sized picture windows. These bays are all shaded by an awning. Immediately above the awning is a blue and white sign reading "BELL CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE BUICK." This sign is surrounded by tan colored stretcher bricks. Above the sign is a stepped parapet that hides a flat roof.

The sides of the main building also exhibits a stepped parapet that gradually descends from the two story front elevation to the one story rear section. The north side is punctuated by a pair of metal doors, a two pane picture window, a fifteen light casement window and a series of three garage doors that permit entry into the service department. A non-contributing metal sheathed building is attached to the main brick section.
