The early 20th Century frame building combining residential and commercial uses is prominently located at the corner of Sandgates Road and Route 235. The structure, reflecting complex massing – deriving perhaps from dual uses, is the only building in the vicinity relating to the history of this rural community. A windshield survey of the area revealed much new development with little reference to the architectural traditions of St Mary's county or the Tidewater area in general. This vacant building alone provides a unique view of the past for this neighborhood. However, the building does not convey unusual architectural design or craftsmanship. In addition, much of the fabric of the building has been lost due to a fire that has left the building in deteriorated condition. An earlier survey indicates the windows are missing as well as the porch details. The charred hole in the roof suggests that the interior has been damaged by fire and it deteriorating from exposure to the elements.

The setting of the building has been compromised by the construction of a mid-20th century brick building on the adjacent corner.

No landscaping remains or site layout remains from the early 20th period of use of the building.

Capsule Summary
SM-523
The Shop Lot
Oakville
Private

c. 1901

Constructed c. 1901, the Shop Lot is a two story, three-bay, frame dwelling with a T-shaped plan and a gable roof exhibiting decorative vergeboards. Located at the corner of Three Notch and Sandgates Roads in Oakville, the primary elevation of the house/shop faces northeast towards the old alignment of Three Notch Road. The building commanded an important commercial location in the early twentieth century at the corner of the two roads. The Shop Lot illustrates the growing importance of commerce in crossroads communities at the end of the nineteenth and in the early-twentieth centuries.

Partitioned from the larger tract "Part of Plowden's Discovery" in 1901, the Shop Lot was purchased by Henry J. and Nellie B. Robinson in that year for $150. The property consisted of four or five acres and the dwelling/shop were probably constructed by him soon after. In 1910, the Robinsons sold the property to Robert L. and Annie E. Graves. Between 1910-1912, however, the property changed hands between the Robinsons and Graves three times before Nellie B. Robinson finally sold the property in 1919 to Charles M. and Mary E. Emmons of Prince George County. Clarence Howard and Bessie May Buckler of Washington, D. C. purchased the property in 1920 finally selling it to Joseph F. and Mary W. Readmond of Washington, D. C in 1939. The house remained in their ownership until 1985. The house burned within the past few years and is currently up for sale.

Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

Contributing resources: 1

The Robinson/Readmond House or "The Shop Lot" is located at the northwest corner of Sandgates Road and Route 235. While the building appears to front Route 235, its primary elevation faces northeast and the old alignment for the Old Three Notch Road. A serious fire gutted the interior, destroyed the windows, and burned a hole in the roof rendering the building uninhabitable and the interior inaccessible at the time of the visit.

Constructed in c. 1901, the Robinson/Readmond house is a two-story, three bay, frame house with a two-story, three bay rear ell. The entire building rests on a brick pier foundation that has been filled in with modern cinder block, exhibits wooden clapboard siding, and is covered by a gable roof sheathed with asphalt shingles. The building appears to have been constructed in one or perhaps two periods with only minor modern alterations.

Oriented on a northeast/southwest axis, the dwelling's northeast or primary elevation exhibits three symmetrically placed bays composed of a centrally located door with one window on each side. (Note: The types of sash and doors is not indicated because the windows were destroyed during the fire) While each window exhibits a pair of louvered shutters, the door extends from the first floor wall into a three-sided bay with slender, sliding one-over-one windows on each of the sides. (Note all window openings exhibit louvered shutters unless otherwise noted.) The entire first floor is shaded by a porch that wraps around the main block. It is supported by a series of slender, modern, aluminum covered columns. The second floor fenestration consists of three windows with louvered shutters. A cross-gable, located over the center bay, contains a single window and is decorated with a scroll-sawn vergeboard. This roof is pierced by two interior brick chimney flues.

The northeast elevation consists of the gable-end of the main block and the side-gable of the rear ell. The gable-end of the main block contains only a centrally placed window on each of its two floors. A scroll-sawn vergeboard decorates the peak of its gable roof. The rear ell, however exhibits a two-story high, three-sided, bay--each side with a window--and a window located just to the west of it. Its gable roof is pierced by a single, interior, brick chimney flue.

The southwest elevation consists of the gable end of the rear ell. The first floor exhibits one centrally placed window, while the second story contains two windows. This elevation also contains a single window located at the southwest corner of the main block.

The southeast elevation features the three bay fenestration of the rear ell and a single, centrally located window in the gable-end of the main block. The rear ell's three bays consist of a door located near the southwest corner flanked by two windows. Between the two windows is an exterior cinder block chimney flue. The first floor of the rear ell is shaded by a porch supported by columns similar to those found on the northwest elevation.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

As a significant early-twentieth century, frame, two-story house and shop, the Shop Lot epitomizes the modest commercial enterprises erected at cross-roads communities in Saint Mary's County. Located at the corner of Old Three Notch Road and Sandgates Road, in Oakville, the dwelling and shop occupied a convenient and strategic position for passing visitors and local residents. The T-shaped plan of the house probably allowed the family to live in the rear section with the front reserved for business.

Partitioned from the larger tract "Part of Plowden's Discovery in 1901," the Shop Lot was purchased by Henry J. and Nellie B. Robinson in that year for $150. Consisting of four or five acres, the dwelling and shop were probably constructed by the Robinson's soon after. In 1910, the Robinsons sold the property to Robert L. and Annie E. Graves. Between 1910-1912, however, the property changed hands between the Robinsons and Graves three times. Nellie B. Robinson finally sold the property in 1919 to Charles M. and Mary E. Emmons of Prince George County. Clarence Howard and Bessie May Buckler of Washington, D. C. purchased the property in 1920 finally selling it to Joseph F. and Mary W. Readmond of Washington, D. C in 1939. The house remained in their ownership until 1985. The house burned within the past few years and is currently up for sale.
