DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE
At the intersection of Greenbrier Road with Mapledam Road stands a small early twentieth century frame chapel. It was built upon brick piers and is one bay by three bays. On its south gable is a double entrance door with three pane transom. It has a low pitch 'A' roof and no windows in the gable. The windows have 2/2 sash except the two small windows on each side of the leanto on the north gable. Apparently the original weatherboard is still in place, although it needs a coat of paint.

The building is included as an example of how late the simple, single room chapel was being built in the county. It is similar to some of the one room schools which were constructed before the turn of the century.
