The G. W. Ridgely House (CAR-366) is located at 12903 Hog Lot Road and was owned by G. W. Ridgely in 1875 according to the a map of Caroline County by John B. Isler. This c. 1870 house is a two story wooden frame house that features a simple rural form of the Gothic Revival style. The house is a symmetrical three-bay house with a centered front gable. The side-gable roof is covered in composition shingles and the exterior walls of the house are clad in aluminum siding. A three-bay porch with a shed roof supported by turned wooden columns is located on the southwest façade (front). A large two-story gabled addition has been added to the rear of the house and a brick chimney is located in the inter portion of the roof of the addition. A second brick chimney is located on the southwest slope of the roof. The original windows have been replaced with one-over-one wooden double-hung sash windows with decorative shutters. This house is identical to the Carter House (CAR-365) located at 12783 Hog Lot Road.

NR-ELIBILITY REVIEW FORM

Continuation Sheet No. 1

CAR-366

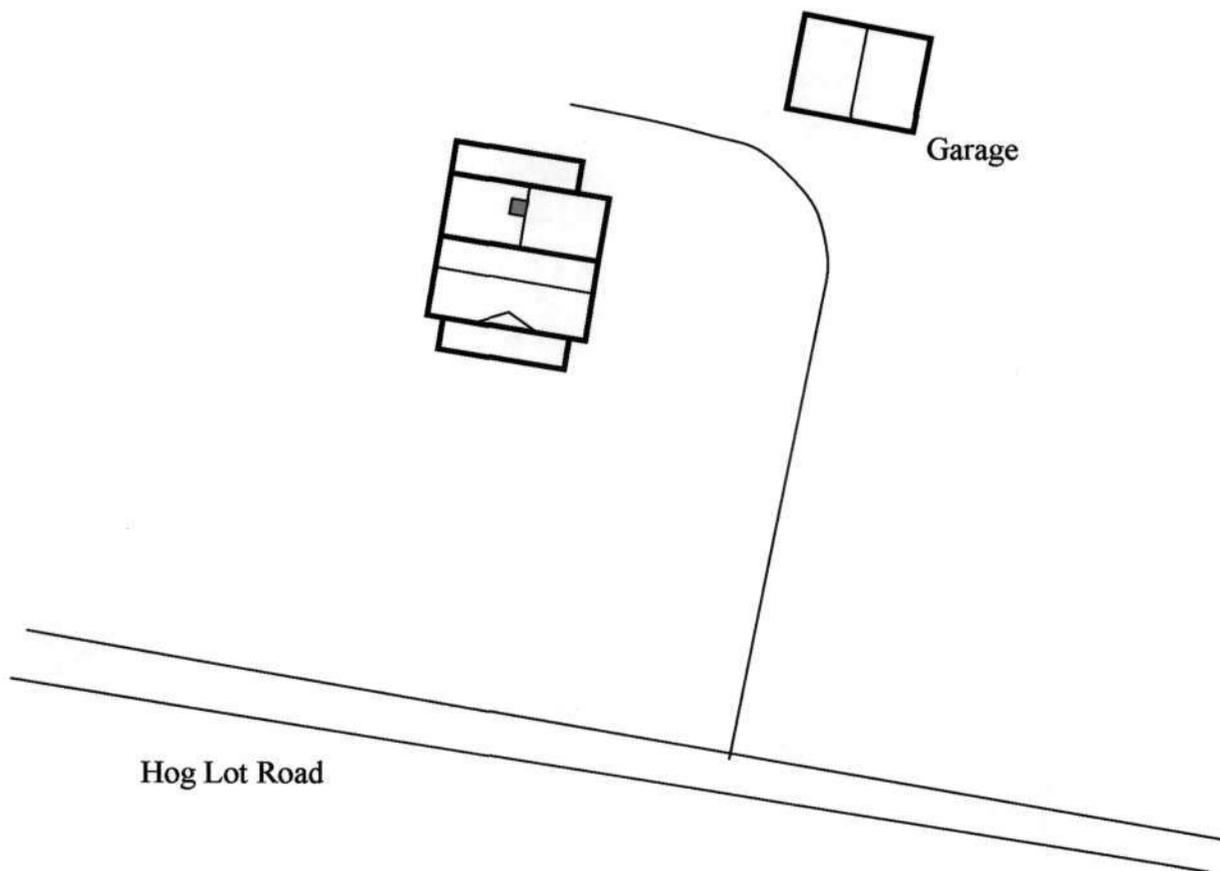

Northeast of the house is a modern garage that is completely clad in metal and features a gabled roof.

This house reflects a popular form that was built during the late nineteenth-century. The rural version of the Gothic Revival style is seen in the prominent centered gable located on the front façade. The style is common and the house has undergone multiple alterations including the original windows have been replaced, the front door has been replaced, and an addition has been added to the rear of the house. Due to the alterations the architectural integrity of this house has been diminished and is recommended as not eligible for the NRHP under Criterion C. In addition this house was not significant in the development of the area and is not known for any association with important individuals. Therefore, the house is not recommended as eligible for the NRHP under Criteria A or B.
