Description of Property and Justification: (Please attach map and photo)

Note: The surveyor found no ownership or tax parcel number information for this property.

The primary structure on this property was built c. 1940s and is a one and one-half story, concrete block house. Its front elevation is a three-bay arrangement with a door at the center and two multi-paned, metal casement windows on either side. The shed roofed porch runs the length of the front elevation and has square pillars resting on brick bases, which are in turn set on a concrete deck. The roof is covered with asphalt shingles and the front windows have stationary wood plank shutters. Much of this house appears to be original to the date of construction. More information could not be gathered about the structure as the street address does not appear in tax records and the name of the owner could not be discovered.

The property is recommended for NR eligibility under criterion C as an intact example of 1940s-1950s concrete block suburban housing, representing the beginnings of a trend which emerged during and after WWII. The house retains a high level of visual integrity to its period of construction and although there are other examples in the project area, and in the surrounding region, this particular house appears to be one of the most intact examples, retaining its concrete block exterior surface, metal windows and porch components.
