Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

This 1931 bungalow is typical of the low-cost, easily constructed houses which became the vernacular houses of the 20th century. The exposed rafter ends, hipped roof, and central front three-window dormer suggest a pre-cut or mail-order house but the source has not been located. The house is altered only by the replacement of the porch decking with concrete, and aluminum siding.

The subject house faces north on North Street on a 50' by 260' lot, one of a row of single family detached houses with similar setbacks and spacing. Neighboring houses range from 2-1/2 story frame turn-of-the-century frame houses to one-story ramblers. A duplex development is across North street on McLean Court. The house has a white rail fence around the front yard, privet hedge on the side property line, and a large mature maple tree shading the front yard. A central concrete walkway leads down the slight grade from the street to the porch. A drive from North Street and parking area is west of the house.

This rectangular 1-1/2 story, 3-bay by 2-bay, pyramidal hipped-roof frame bungalow has a central dormer and a full-width front porch. The roof is covered with composition shingles and the exterior cladding is aluminum siding. The foundation is brick parged with concrete. There are two plain brick interior chimneys, one on the east and one on the west roof slope. Windows are 2/2 with plain surrounds that have been spaced out with molding strips to accommodate a new layer of siding.

The three-bay north (front) has a central shed-roofed three-window dormer. One four-light casement sash is extant; the other two have been replaced with a rectangular ventilator panel. There are pairs of 2/2 windows in the east and west bays and a central four-light wood panel exterior door. The shed-roofed porch is supported by four square wooden posts and has a concrete deck with one concrete step.

Both east and west facades have three evenly spaced 2/2 windows. There are two three-light basement windows in the foundation.

The two-bay south (rear) facade has a window in the east bay and a four-light wood exterior door in the west bay.

ROCKVILLE HISTORIC RESOURCES MANAGEMENT PLAN DATA: Attachment 8.2

HISTORICAL CONTEXT

This house was constructed on the northernmost block of "Beall's Subdivision", originally platted in 1893. This section of the subdivision was abandoned in 1910, then resubdivided in 1926. 1/ In the mid-1920s, the three Dawson sisters, (Margaret S. Dawson, Priscilla Farmer and Mary Brooke) who had inherited this portion of Margaret J. Beall's subdivision, sold off a number of building lots with 50 foot frontages on North Street. Among the purchasers were Elijah and Emma Duffin, who in May 1925 bought lot 6, which contained 13,500 square feet. 2/

The Duffins owned the property for three years, then sold to James and Estelle Doy. 3/ In 1931, the Doy's took out a mortgage for $900, presumably to construct the house. They lost it at foreclosure in 1935. The property was advertised in the Montgomery County Sentinel, then sold at public auction to the highest bidder at 3 p.m. on Tuesday, November 5, 1935, in front of the new Court House door. The property was described as "located in the colored settlement adjacent to Rockville known as Haiti, this property formerly owned by James Doy and wife and now occupied by Nellie Offutt, also called Nellie Gitting and Walter Gitting and family. It is improved by a six room frame bungalow, composition roof recently built, basement and attic, and the lot contains 13,500 square feet of land, more or less and has a frontage on the street of about 50 feet by a depth of 270 feet." The property was sold to Annie I. Ray, holder of the $900 mortgage which was foreclosed, for $1100. 4/

Following an intervening owner, Edward Johnson lived in the house for a few years, then sold it to James E. and Marie V. Crockett, who lived there for almost two decades. 5/ Under the Crockett ownership, the property also went to foreclosure. 6/ The present owners purchased the house in 1984.
