Eligibility recommended Eligibility not recommended

Criteria: A B C D Considerations: A B C D E F G None

Justification for decision: (Use continuation sheet if necessary and attach map)

The Herbert Lambert and Willetta Mateer House is recommended not eligible for the National Register. Although illustrative of settlement patterns in the Oakland area during the mid-twentieth century, the dwelling possesses poor integrity of materials, feeling, and association. Research has not identified any significant associations with historic persons or events. The house neither reflects the distinctive characteristics of a particular architectural style nor embodies the representative work of a master craftsman or method of construction. The building also does not appear to potentially provide important information for the study of history.

Prepare both a one paragraph summary and a comprehensive description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

The Herbert Lambert and Willetta Mateer House (G-VI-A-041) standing at 569 South Third Street in Oakland stands one story tall with an ell-shped main gable roof. The small, frame Tudor Revival dwelling possesses four bays cross its main, southeastern elevation and two bays across its southwest elevation. A basement level garage occupies the northern corner of the northeast gable end. The dwelling sits back from South Third Street, a subdivision of similar mid-twentieth century homes, approximatley 10 meters (10 feet).

The dwelling is clad in dark brown gray shakes and rests on a rock-faced concrete block foundation. A one-bay wide gable-roofed vestibule projects from the middle southeast elevation protecting a round-arch headed door entry. A partially-enclosed hipped roof porch covers a second entry into the house through the northeast elevation. The roofs are sheathed with asphalt shingles and ornamentesd with weatherboard in the gable peaks and flat partial returns. A corbeled brick chimney penetrates the center of the house est of the ridge.

Aluminum replacement windows occupy most window openings. The southern of the southeast elevation's bay possesses a three-sided oriel. One-light casements and one-over-one sliding sash compose most other window openings. The southwest elevation displays two three-over-one wooden sash. The formal entry door in the southeast elevation's vestibule consists of a tongue-and-groove panel door while the northeast elevation's entry possesses a woode panel door with a large uppr light. Window ornament consists flat wood surrounds topped by a thin drip molding.

National Register Maryland Register not evaluated

Prepare a one-paragraph summary statement of significance addressing applicable criteria, followed by a narrative discussion of the history of the resource and its context. (For compliance reports, complete evaluation on a DOE Form - see manual).

Erected in 1940 according to Garrett County tax records, and reiterated by the current owner, the Herbert Lambert and Willetta Mateer House relates to the development of residential areas in previously unsettled areas surrounding Oakland in the mid-twentieth century. Area landowners subdivided parcels along much of South Third Street, then part of the Garrett Highway (US 219's predecessor) and the principal road network leading south of town, during the 1940s. An example of settlement radiating outward from village and town centers along established road networks, development of the South Third Street area evolved during this period in response to Oakland's continuing role as the county's seat of government and the principal market town for southern Garrett County. Oakland annexed the South Third Street area into its corporate limits in 1989.
