Dear Mr. Herbert:

"Teaching in the Age of the Internet: A Collaborative Program Promoting Computer Technology in Social Studies Education," holds promise for improving humanities and civic education. Based on this belief, our school system will provide additional assistance to the project by contacting NAACP's president Kwiesi Mfume to speak during the Summer 1998 session on Civil Rights. Our request will be presented in the context of an ongoing collegial relationship between the producer of Kwiesi Mfume's Baltimore talk show and Anne Arundel County Public Schools.

Sincerely,

Jane Doyle
