ville, and Dr. E. W. Lampton got on board and told me to make myself at home. I suppose that I must be at home in this riding business any way. His wife was at the stable and shook my dily black hand and told me to make myself at home, which I did with all my heart. She reminded me that she was coming up the next day and if I would friend chicken for me, and that it would gether, and they have two children in and see her at work. I must send you be fried, so I smacked my mouth and went on my way rejoicing. "Friar's Point!" shouted the big monted reporter and corndoctor, and we all got off. The preachers filed off in large numbers, and Rev C. S. Bowman was jumping around like a chicken with with its head cut off trying to receive us all at one time. Bishop Tyree and his wife were cared for and then Col. Midnight was assigned to stop with one of the biggest men in town, if not the biggest man in this section of the country. "Dr. Lampton," said the pastur would like for you to show the Colonel to the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H.

"I shall be pleased to do so," replied Dr. Lampton, as polite as a basket of chips, and then he introduced me to a business looking young man, and told me that he was Mr. W. H. Allen. was surprised to meet him waiting at the stable for me, but I was received just the same. Now I must tell you a few things about this man W. H. Allen.
