SOWING WITH CANNON.

How a High, Rocky Crag Became a Thir.g of Beauty.

Near Blair Castle stands a high, for a long time looked grim and bare look if only trees, shrubs, etc., could be planted in its nooks and crannies. It was considered impossible for any one to scale its steep and dangerous acclivities, and no other way was thought of to get seed sown. One day Alexander Nasmyth, father of the celebrated engineer, paid a visit The dangers of the public swimming to the grounds. The crag was pointed out to him, and, after some thought, he suddenly interested in the subject of cities.
