The engine horses, en route from the New Orleans; and train were entirely destroyed by fire, leaving only the trucks and iron

The engineer and fireman of the train were killed and 21 injured.

A special train was hurried to the Wiley, Spear, Claybrook and Twigg on board, and upon arrival it was found that Dr. G. B. Haggard, of Massilon, Ohio, and Dr. V. T. McGillicudy, of Los Angeles, Cal., who were on the wrecked train, had ministered as far as possible to the wants of the injured. Seven men whose injuries were most severe were brought to the hospital here and are doing well. A number were taken to Myersdale, Pa.

Just what caused the wreck is not known. The train was coming down a steep grade at a lively rate when the engine suddenly left the track and buried itself in the mountain side, almost completely clearing the tracks and flattening itself against the mountain. The front of the engine, including the cylinders Michigan and side rods, were completely driven into the mountain. The mail car struck the engine tank and swung around beside the engine, while other cars of the train, consisting of a baggage car, smoker, day coach and two Pullmans, jumped the track and ran on the ties the full length of the train beyond the

The engine and postal car immediately caught fire, the gas lights in the latter car causing the blaze, and the flames being communicated from there to the rear Pullman, spread through to the baggage car, the entire wreck burning like tinder. All the cars were more or less wrecked by the sudden stop, the chairs Acajutla, all the passengers and the in the Pullman beng torn from their crew being saved. places and thrown around the cars. The tracks were badly torn up.

Mail Clerk Partello states that there were about 80,000 pieces of mail in the mail car, and that the only thing saved was one registered letter and one registered parcel.

WHITE HOUSE PAGEANT.

President Roosevelt's Brilliant New Year's Reception-Mansion Crowded.

Washington, (Special).—The reception at the White House New Year's Day is regarded as one of the most brilliant in many years.

Altogether 8,100 persons filed through the historic mansion and shook hands with President Roosevelt on the occasion of his first public reception. Mr. Roosevelt gave orders that the gates of the White House should not be closed until every person desiring to do so had an opportunity to pay his respects.

The reception began promptly at o'clock, and it was 2.30 o'clock before the last person in line had been presented to the President, and a quarter of an R. Burt, president of the Ann Arbor the siding and the freight locomotive hour later before the reception came to Wilcox May Go Free.

Elizabeth City, N. C., (Special).—The evidence collected so far against James E. Wilcox, accused of murdering Miss Ella Cropsey at Elizabeth City, N. C., is considered too weak to convict him Except for statements made by him as to what he did on the night of Miss Cropsey's disappearance he might now be free. Several of these statements lack verification and this creates suspicion. So far all efforts to find clues to accomplices in the crime have failed. Wilcox's nerve is extraordinary and sustains him in his ordeal.
